From 'Strangler' case:

'Suspect' discounted

Police officials say they have discounted as a prime suspect in the killings of two girls a former mental patient once questioned in the "Boston Strangler" killings.

Police said today the report from the State Police crime laboratory in Lansing had not yet been returned. It is hoped the chemical tests will shed more light on the last hours of of Maralynn Skelton's death, including the possibility of drugs being in her blood stream at the time of death. Until that time, police are being reserved on the possibility of her death coming at the hands of another narcotics user.

The young Romulus girl, 16, was a known narcotics user and "pusher" whom authorities said was active and well-known in the Ypsilanti-Ann Arbor area.

"It's not a revenge type of killing," police said, "because her body was left carefully where it would be found quickly." He said that a revenge killer would have "disposed" of the body instead of leaving it where it could be found.

"He isn't any more a suspect than anybody else," Ann Arbor Police Chief Walter Krasny said yesterday after the Boston Strangler case "suspect."

"It is not correct to say that this man is a prime suspect," Sgt. Kenneth Klinge said. "Of course, we're not discounting anyone."

Source reported yesterday that the 28-year-old man, now a graduate student at the University of Michigan, has drawn official attention because of his background.

He has not been brought in for questioning, police said. It was also reported police have investigated the man's background but lack any direct evidence linking him to the 11 Boston stranglings from 1961 through 1964 or to the four local killings.

Meanwhile, State Police in Ypsilanti, who are investigating the death last week of 23-year-old Jane L.

Mixer, reported they are continuing to trace down leads in the shooting death of the U-M first-year law student. She was killed by two gunshot wounds in the head. Her fully clothed body was found at the entrance to the Denton Cemetery by a neighbor.

A spokesman said yesterday a report from the crime laboratory in Lansing indicated that Miss Mixer had been killed around midnight. She was last seen around 6 p.m. the night before after

Signs up too early

Signs posted for City Council candidate R. Donn Newhouse of 312 North St., like this one near Woodruff School, are in violation of a city ordinance. Clerk Betty E. Fenker said such materials cannot be posted on public property until five days before the election and they must be removed within two days afterwards. A special form granting permission for posting such material must also be filed. Newhouse reported that he was unaware of the ruling and stated that he would notify campaign workers of its restrictions.

Majestic last tribute Under way for Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions mourned the passing of Dwight D. Eisenhower today at the beginning of a majestic final tribute before a train carries him slowly home to the Kansas plains.

Private services for the family were planned in a cloistered chapel of the Washington National Cathedral as a personal prelude to the ceremonial farewell that will last five days.

Eisenhower, who led history's mightiest Army to victory in Europe in World War II and his nation through eight years of shaky but unbroken peace, died Friday after an epic 11-month siege of repeated heart attacks.

As tributes to the 78-year-old former president poured in from the palaces and parliaments of the world, it was the mayor of Eisenhower's adopted home of Gettysburg, Pa., who perhaps said it for all:

"Although I was expecting it, it still caused great sadness," said William G. Weaver.

President Nixon, whom Eisenhower lived to see in the White House, went into the seclusion of his Camp David, Md., retreat after saying, "We have lost a great leader, a great friend and a great man."

Nixon will return Sunday when the body is borne by horse-drawn caisson through the streets of Washington to lie in state beneath the dome of the U.S. Capitol.

President Charles de Gaulle of France will head the procession of perhaps 100 foreign leaders expected to pay final respect to Eisenhower at a solemn state funeral in the Washington National Cathedral Monday.

"For me, I see disappear with much sadness a dear companion in arms and a friend," said De Gaulle.

"A giant of our age is gone," said Lyndon B. Johnson, now one of two surviving ex-presidents.

The other, Harry S. Truman, now 84 and in frail health, said despite his political feuds with Eisenhower after World War II, "We were comrades in arms and I cannot forget his services to his country and Western civilization."

Through all the praise for Eisenhower ran the common refrain—victor in war, man of peace.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield compared him to George Washington. And perhaps Eisenhower, with his landslide victories, may well have been the most popular President since the birth of the nation.

Public opinion polls still rank him as the most admired American.

Unknown to the nation when World War II began, Eisenhower rose to command the mightiest armies ever assembled in battle through the invasion of Europe to his personal acceptance of the German surrender.

Elected President in 1952 and again in 1956—the only Republican in this century to win successive terms—Eisenhower, with his warm smile and simple words, brought reassuring confidence to a nation beset with Cold War crises and won as just plain "Ike" a place in the hearts of millions.

Mamie slips quietly away To grieve privately for Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the long vigil over, Mamie Eisenhower quickly slipped away to grieve in private.

"She's been a real soldier through it all," said an officer at Walter Reed Hospital after former President Dwight D. Eisenhower died Friday.

"Looking after Ike," she once said, was her first job. "I only live from day to day."

Bulletins from the hospital in the final days mentioned constantly that "Mrs. Eisenhower stays close by his bedside."

After the death was announced, Mrs. Eisenhower left the third-floor suite where she spent most of the past 11 months as her husband fought to survive repeated heart attacks, surgery and pneumonia.

Unnoticed, she was driven from the hospital to some undisclosed haven away from the limelight that she had known and detested so long.

Two years ago she said she didn't miss the excitement of earlier years.

"No one who has ever been in that terrible limelight would ever seek it again," she said.

With her when she left the hospital was her son, John, 46, only living child of the Eisenhowers and newly named ambassador to Belgium. Their first son, Dwight, died in 1920 of scarlet fever when he was 3. Other members of the family at the hospital were John's wife, Barbara; and David, their son who is married to Julie Nixon; Mrs. G. Gordon Moore, sister of Mamie Eisenhower; and Dr. Milton Eisenhower of Baltimore, president emeritus of Johns Hopkins University, a brother of the general.

One other brother who survives is Edgar Eisenhower, 80, a Tacoma, Wash., attorney.

One granddaughter, Barbara Anne, 19, flew in Friday night from Ecuador. It could not be determined if the other Eisenhower grandchildren, Susan, 17, and Mary Jean, 13, were at the hospital.

The Eisenhowers were married July 1, 1916, when he was an Army second lieutenant. He was 25, she was 19.

Most of their nearly 53 years of marriage was spent in rented houses on Army bases except—of course—for eight years in the White House.

Banks, Courts To close

All Ypsilanti area banks will close at 1 p.m. Monday in mourning for President Eisenhower.

The county's District Courts will all be closed all day Monday, but the judges will handle emergency cases.

All schools, including Eastern Michigan University and the University of Michigan, will hold classes on schedule. City and Ypsilanti school officials today planned to keep their offices open Monday.

The Ypsilanti Post Office said there would be no mail deliveries on Monday but that mail in the boxes would be delivered.

Man, 50, Killed In crash

A 50-year-old man, on his way to work at an Ypsilanti plant was killed this morning when his car left Whittaker Rd. and crashed just south of Martz Rd.

Sheriff's deputies identified the victim as Julius L. Adamik of 14371 Tuttle Hill Rd.

Investigating officers said they found a newspaper clipping reported his being slightly injured in an accident a year ago at approximately the same time of day and location.

Today's accident occurred about 6:55 a.m. when Adamik's northbound 1967-model sedan left the road, hit two utility poles and two road signs, flipped over and threw the driver out.

A boy living nearby heard the crash and his father, William C. Leonard of 7495 Whittaker Rd., ran to the scene. He told deputies he

Fall target date:

Arlan's to rebuild Burned-out store

Arlan's Discount department store, destroyed by fire March 7, will be rebuilt and open for business in September or October, according to Ronald Hutson, manager of the Ypsilanti Area Chamber of Commerce.

Hutson, who has been in contact with officials of the chain store operation in New York City, said he has been advised that Arlan's is planning to re-open the Ypsilanti branch, hopefully, in time to serve the fall back-to-school shoppers.

The Chamber official reported that he talked with Arlan's officials last weekend while in New York for a National Retail Merchants Association seminar. The status on the business' future had been indefinite here since the fire, which resulted in damages estimated up to $500,000.

The blaze was discovered about 11 p.m., with approximately 40 firefighters successfully battling to keep it from spreading to the adjoining Arlan's Foods. The two stores are located in a shopping center at 214 E. Michigan Ave. on the east side of the downtown business district.

No one was injured in the fire although the billowing smoke drew large crowds of spectators to the scene. Cause of the blaze remains undetermined, according to City Fire Department Chief Ralph Crawford.

Indian's plight told

By DOROTHY LASKEY
Of The Press Staff

A funny thing happened to Will Rogers, Jr., on his way to Ann Arbor.

He has worked as a publisher, a congressman, an actor and is now a special assistant in Indian affairs in Washington, D.C.

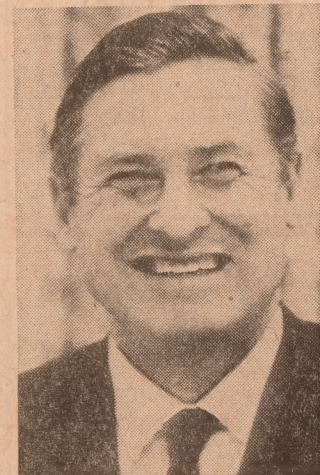

Rogers, the son of the cowpoke who gained fame by weaving wit and wisdom in among his rope tricks a generation ago, addressed an audience of about 160 persons last night at a meeting of the Council on Adoptable Children (COAC).

He spoke on the plight of the American Indian today and the availability of Indian children for adoption into families or another race.

COAC is concerned with the "hard to place" child. — The one who is anything but a blond, blue-eyed infant.

Rogers, who is one-eighth Cherokee, has an adopted Navajo son as well as his own family.

Clem, the adopted boy, joined the Rogers family

when he was six-year-old. Rogers said in a way he was almost lovingly "kidnaped" because it was about a year after he was living with the family that the red tape of the adoption process was unraveled.

Rogers said that according to current statistics there are one million Indians in the United States today. He said the majority of them are on or near reservations and only about 200,000 have been urbanized.

Rogers said that tribal identity is still strong among the reservation Indians.

In answer to a question regarding the attitude of tribes to having their orphans adopted outside the Indian tradition Rogers said the Pueblo Indians don't like it. He added that they object to having the child taken off the tribal list.

Rogers said that areas where orphaned Indian children needed families had yet to be studied. He indicated that the Alaskan Eskimos had extremely poor living conditions and children may be without a family there.

"Keep your eye on the Eskimo," Rogers said. He said the culture produced bright, laughing people.

The emphasis on black history and black culture today overshadows the history of the native Americans, the Indian, Rogers said.

He said his work takes him into the schools and into the

THE WORLD OF RELIGION

Parochial plight same across U.S.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK (AP) — A crucial educational struggle, precipitated by the financial squeeze on parochial schools, is going on today across the nation. The key issue is over proposed government help to church-run schools.

Battles over it are under way in at least a dozen states, and it also is being considered in Congress.

The religious lines of contention are mixed, with some Protestants and Roman Catholics on both sides, but with predominant support for state aid pushed by those with church school systems, mostly Catholics and some Protestants.

It's an old conflict, but it is greatly heightened this time by the financial crisis in parochial schools, forcing many to close and threatening others with a similar fate, sending their pupils into public schools.

Already, the number of Catholic elementary parochial pupils has declined by about 400,000 since 1965, despite rising population, with additional schools being closed or grades eliminated at a rising pace.

More than 40 were shut down in the first two weeks of March in 10 cities, with several thousand pupils shifted to public schools.

It's a crisis for public education as well, says Msgr. James

C. Donohue, of Washington, D.C., director of the Division of Elementary and Secondary Education of the U.S. Catholic Conference.

He told a recent congressional hearing that the wholesale transfer of Catholic pupils to public schools would put an unbearable burden on property tax rates, force curricular cutbacks and further overload public school classes.

In Congress, the question was over extension and possible expansion of the 1965 Education Act, which gives parochial pupils a share in government-provided library and laboratory materials, and remedial services.

Currently, Catholic schools enroll about 5.3 million pupils, while Protestant-run elementary and secondary schools enroll a total of 372,000. The largest Protestant system—with 117,000 students—is that of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

It has termed government aid "acceptable so long as it does not interfere with the distinctive purposes" for which church schools are maintained.

In Fort Wayne, Ind., about 5,000 Lutherans and Roman Catholics recently staged a mass rally to spark help to non-public schools. A Lutheran school official, Dr. Arthur L. Amt, says: "We are simply trying to create an awareness of the public purpose served by nonpublic schools."

However, many Protestants and Jews oppose government assistance, on the ground that it is contrary to the constitutional prohibition against any law regarding establishment of religion, and that it would create educational divisiveness.

However, because of the parochial school crisis and its resultant pressures on public schools, many of the usual opponents are taking a more tempered view, including some Baptists, ordinarily the sharpest foes.

In Boston recently, an American Baptist leader, the Rev. Dr. Paul L. Sturges, said aid to parochial schools would be acceptable to him if Catholic authorities agreed to publicly supervised standards in their school systems.

Dena Alexander, 'mother', and Sammy Stamos who plays the title role in 'The Little Evzone' present a dress rehearsal of Sunday's play. Also slated are speakers Timothy Gregory from the University of Michigan and Theodore G. Capekis, president of the church board. Tom Tziahannas will be master of ceremonies.

Greek school To stage program

St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church of Ann Arbor is sponsoring an afternoon Modern Greek Language School for children of its parish and others in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area desiring to learn Greek.

Greek classes meet daily from 4:30 to 6:00 p.m. Each class meets twice a week.

Every Greek Orthodox Church traditionally has an afternoon school for teaching the modern Greek language and Greek culture to children of Greek extraction born in the United States.

They are enrolled at about the age of 6 or 7 and continue their study for approximately seven years.

As in other Greek schools throughout the U.S. and Canada, the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti Greek School children present an annual program centered around Greek Independence Day (March 25, 1821).

The program includes poems, folk songs and dances, skits, and a drama, all in the modern Greek language.

This year's event will be presented this Sunday at 4:00 p.m. in the St. Nicholas church hall at 414 N. Main St. in Ann Arbor.

First Seder service Marks Passover season

Passover, the spring Festival of Freedom of Judaism will begin at sunset Wednesday.

Jews throughout the world will gather together in their homes for the observance of the First Seder, the traditional meal and service commemorating the Exodus from Egypt of the Children of Israel under the leadership of Moses.

During the course of the Seder meal, an order of service known as the Haggadah is read. The Haggadah contains a narrative of the events leading up to the Exodus and songs and melodies celebrating the joy of the season.

Among traditional Jews, two and often three Seder meals are observed; among Reform Jews one Seder at sunset of the First Day of Passover is the standard procedure. The Festival of Passover is observed for a period of eight days during which time no leaven is permitted in the home. Unleavened bread, Matzoh, is eaten during the course of the Festival in remembrance of the fact that the Children of Israel in their haste to leave Egypt had no time to allow the dough of their bread to rise.

Passover is one of the three Pilgrimage Festivals of Judaism. The Festival has both historical and agricultural significance. Historically, Passover commemorates the liberation from Egyptian slavery and as such represents one of the earliest freedom festivals in the recorded history of mankind. Agriculturally, Passover marks the appearance of the first barley in the state of Israel.

Passover services will be conducted at Beth Israel Congregation, 1429 Hill St., Ann Arbor, according to the following schedule:

Thursday, April 3, at 9:30 a.m., First Day of Passover in the Zwerdling-Cohn Chapel.

Thursday, April 3, at 6:45 p.m. — Small Chapel.

Friday, April 4, at 9:30 a.m. — Zwerdling-Cohn Chapel (Second Day).

Friday, April 4, at 8:30 p.m., Rabbi Mervin B. Tomsky will speak on the "Negro-Jewish Confrontation."

Saturday, April 5, at 9:30 a.m. — Sabbath service.

Wednesday, April 9, at 9:30 a.m. — Seventh Day of Passover.

Thursday, April 10, at 9:30 a.m. — Eighth Day of Passover — Yizkor Services.

All Passover services will be officiated by Rabbi Mervin B. Tomsky and Cantor Larry Boxer.

Ypsi gospel group To give performance

The Ecclesiastes, a gospel singing quintet composed of Ypsilanti men and women will sing with the James Cleveland Show Sunday at the King Solomon Baptist Church in Detroit.

Groups from Chicago, New York and St. Louis, Mo., as well as Detroit will be performing. Cleveland's show originates from Los Angeles.

Members of the quintet are Mrs. Levi (Shirley) Simpson, Mrs. Howard (Josephine) West, B. J. Motley, Bobby Brown and Harvey Hill on guitar.

The group which uses a clavinet, an instrument that gives harpsichord-like sounds, is also arranging a concert at Ypsilanti High School on April 27.

The Ecclesiastes have sung in many area churches and over a Detroit radio station.

Pastor Pretzlaff to leave Emmanuel

Sunday an open house will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. at Emmanuel Lutheran Church to honor the Rev. Paul T. Pretzlaff who has accepted a pastorate at Bethesda Lutheran Church in Detroit.

Mr. Pretzlaff, 38, will be installed there as senior pastor on April 13th. Easter Sunday will conclude his five and one-half year ministry in Ypsilanti.

During his stay here Mr. Pretzlaff was a member of the Housing Commission, president of the Ministerial Association in 1965 and 1966, coordinator of the Interfaith Council for Social Action, a member of the Kiwanis Club, secretary of the Michigan District of the American Lutheran Church and a committeeman for the Ecumenical Week of Prayer for Christian Unity.

Prior to coming to Emmanuel Lutheran Mr. Pretzlaff had pastored in Columbus and Cincinnati, Ohio. He received his A.B. degree from Capital University in Columbus in 1952 and his B.D. from the Evangelical Lutheran Theological Seminary in Columbus in 1956.

His wife, Donna, has been Senior Choir Director at Emmanuel. She is a graduate of Capital University with a degree in church music.

The Pretzlaffs have four children, David, 14, a student at West Junior High and Susan, Eric and Keith, ages 11, 7, and 5, respectively, pupils at Chapelle Elementary School. The children have all been active in scouting. David is a member of the Boy Scout Band.

Cathedral dated to 1066

ROCHESTER, England (AP) — Archeological work in the north transept of Rochester Cathedral has disclosed a wall dating from before the Norman conquest of England (1066).

It formed part of a wall and pillar supporting an arch in a church of the 10th or early 11th century, experts say.

Little is known of the history of Rochester Cathedral before 1075, although it is established that a small stone Saxon cathedral stood on the site in 604.

Second Baptist on move:

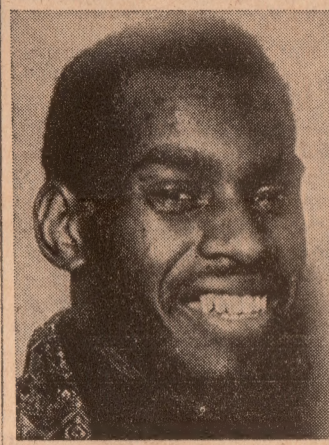

Church breaks ground for future

Ground-breaking ceremonies for the Second Baptist Church's fellowship hall will be held tomorrow at noon at the church site on 301 S. Hamilton St.

The planned building — estimated to cost $160,000 — is part one of a three-phase church construction program, that will later include a sanctuary and a three-story educational unit. The structure is slated for completion in early October. Phase one, the fellowship hall, will be a two-level structure with approximately 6,300 square feet of floor space. Included in the building will be offices, a kindergarten, a sacristy, a kitchen, a fellowship hall, and maintenance areas.

Prior the the ground-breaking ceremonies, Ypsilanti City Mayor John Burton and J. Don Lawrence, Board of Directors Chairman of the National Bank of Ypsilanti, will be guest speakers at the church's Palm Sunday service beginning at 10:00 a.m.

The new Second Baptist Church was designed by Nathan Johnson, A.A.I., of Detroit, and the general contractor is Paul Barton and Associates, Inc., of Kalamazoo. Construction funds for the church's first unit have been loaned by the National Bank of Ypsilanti.

Will Rogers Jr. tells of Indian woes

reservations where Indians still hold on to their primitive customs and are locked in because of social restrictions.

He said most Indians today do not have an image or identity. He said that alcoholism and shiftlessness that has come to be associated with the Indian was forced on him because the means he had of asserting himself have been taken away.

"Some white face across a desk makes all the decisions," he said.

Rogers said the plight of the Indian began with colonization when the "civilized men" pushed the Indians deeper and deeper into the West.

The Indians were hunters and warriors and could not be turned into farmers or herders overnight.

He said the key to aiding the Indian is education. And education, he noted, takes money. This has been a major obstacle in the program, he said.

He said that the Indian culture and traditions are still strong. He used a recent 3-day "pow wow" at which over 500 dancers in feathered costumes came to dance as an example.

But he continued that the Indian culture has not been able to live within the structure of the over-all affluent American society. He said the Indians must be educated and given skills so that he can be not only an Indian, but also a member of the national scheme.

The ultimate goal is to have easy social mobility on and off the reservations, he said.

Rogers said that even the official bureau isn't aware of all its tribes. Rogers said he wasn't aware of the reservations in Michigan until last night.

Rogers pointed out that bringing the Indian "up" in education, skills, and his attitude of himself was not detrimental to the culture.

He said it was a step forward, a step that had to be taken since the Indian had been exposed to modern society, and there was no going back.

The Indian today knows what he doesn't have, but possibly doesn't realize what he does have in the score of folklore and traditions, it was indicated.

Every society sees changes, Rogers said.

Detroit plant Tells expansion

DETROIT (AP) — Joseph T. Ryerson & Sons, Inc., Chicago-based metals distributor, has announced a $3-million expansion of its Detroit plant and office space.

The expansion will create 200 new jobs, doubling the work force at the inner-city facility. Construction has already begun on the project.

Area schools compete in finals

Industrial teams from Ypsilanti, Saline and Westland High Schools are competing today in state finals at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant.

Some 50 high school students were winners in regional contests held at Eastern, Central, Northern and Western Michigan Universities.

Judging in the day-long program was based on the competitors' technical skills and work habits while working against time. Divisions include mechanical drawing, pictorial illustration, architectural drawing and use of soft materials.

Teams of two are entered in "trouble shooting" areas of automotive servicing.

Coeds are warned After 4 murders

Spokesman for both Eastern Michigan University and the University of Michigan have issued statements warning their coeds to take special precautions. The warnings come in the wake of the violent death of the fourth young girl in the area within the past 21 months.

Mrs. Barbara W. Newell, acting vice president for student affairs at UM said "we at the University of Michigan are greatly saddened by the recent violent deaths of four young women in this area, one a UM law student."

"We ask our students to be especially cautious about their habits and actions to minimize the possibility of involvement in any similar tragedies," she said.

Mrs. Newell suggested that the students follow rules of common sense, which include not accepting rides with strangers, not hitchhiking, not walking alone after dark, and staying away from remote and uninhabited areas.

Assistance from local police agencies was assured, along with help from college security officials and resident housing directors.

Eastern Michigan University President Harold E. Sponberg also has urged female students to take special precautions. In a statement issued earlier this week, he pointed out that three girls had been attacked in recent days within the general area of EMU. Two young girls were murdered within one week and the third young lady was mugged while walking home early in the morning from work.

In each of these attacks, the victim has been a girl either walking alone late at night in dimly lighted areas or hitchhiking alone.

"In view of these circumstances, we urge all EMU coeds to make it a point to avoid walking unescorted in the campus area after dark and that they not hitchhike," he said. "We are confident that this is a temporary alarm."

"We assure you that EMU will make every appropriate effort to help the police find whoever made these attacks. Our own security force has already extended its patrol efforts in the campus area," he said. Sponberg added that the college will do everything they can to insure the safety of young women on campus.

Area police agencies have urged young women not to take the attitude that "it can't happen to me" because it has already happened to four young ladies. The girls killed didn't expect to get involved in a situation they couldn't handle, but obviously did.

The police feel the information on the dangers of hitchhiking and accepting rides from strangers has been pounded into the heads of the public so they know they shouldn't accept rides. But daylight and populated areas sometimes gives people a sense of false security which can lead to death.

'Suspect' is discounted

she had advertised for a ride to her parents home in Muskegon.

Police also disclosed that the lab report showed Miss Mixer had not been criminally assaulted. The three other murder victims had been attacked by their killer, and Miss Skelton had been brutally struck in the head by a rounded object and assaulted in a sexually perverted manner.

Police now are trying to link the many disconnected pieces in the lives of Maralynn Skelton, 16, of Romulus, Miss Mixer, Joan E. Schell and Mary Fleszar. All four have been found dead within a 15-mile radius. Each death is similar, and at the same time, dissimilar.

Man, 55, held In wife's death

Samuel W. Bass, 55, a retired shoe repairman, was in Washtenaw County Jail today, charged with the murder of his wife.

Bass and his wife, Elizabeth, 61, lived at 402 Harriet St. Police said a family argument led to the shooting. They said Mrs. Bass was dead when they arrived at the Bass home.

Mrs. Bass' body was found in a bedroom. Police said she had been shot by a .38 caliber revolver.

Police would not say what the argument was about. Bass was arraigned yesterday in district court. His examination has been set for April 3. No bail was set.

Phone will answer Garden problems

A phone answering service on the "Garden Problem of the Day" is being made available to residents of the Ypsilanti, Wayne and Belleville areas.

The 24-hour-a-day, two-minute recorded message may be reached by dialing 728-8000, a Wayne number reached by local call from Ypsilanti and Belleville.

The timely gardening hints presented are prepared by the Wayne County Cooperative Extensive Service and are sponsored by the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association.

Ypsi student wins U-M prize

Kathleen Strunk of Ypsilanti was awarded a Branstrom Prize at the University of Michigan honors convocation yesterday.

The prize, a book of the student's choice bearing the university seal and a nameplate, goes to the men and women making up the top 5 per cent of the University's freshman class. This year 246 students won the prize.

The prize was established in 1960 by the late William J. Branstrom, a Fremont attorney, who founded the Newaygo Foundation to improve educational opportunities for Newaygo County youths and to improve civic and recreational facilities in the county.

Miss Strunk, a graduate of St. John's High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore P. Strunk of 305 Edison St. She is enrolled in U-M's College of Literature, Science, and the Arts.

'Saving' of high school Very welcome news indeed

Official notification yesterday that St. John's High School will remain open should be greeted as very welcome news throughout the community.

Although the final decision was expected, in light of the success of a "Save St. John's" pledge drive, the archdiocese's announcement had been awaited with some hesitation by the affected parents and others in the parish. Since March 1 the archdiocese of Detroit has announced the closing in June of about 20 parochial schools because of staffing and financial problems.

Ypsilanti St. John's stands alone as a school marked for closing but which will stay open because enough people believed in it and put their convictions into positive action.

With the long-scheduled closing of Roosevelt High School in June, the St. John's decision has even greater meaning to the community. The public schools will be spared the sudden impact of nearly 300 additional upper-grades students, and the city will continue to have a second, private high school.

Although a major battle has been won, the war must still be fought. The more than $150,000 pledged to help operate St. John's in the next four years is only a solid starting point. Availability of teaching personnel will continue to be a problem, as it is in all schools. And more effort will have to be expended to assure the school is filled closer to its capacity of 400 students.

But the "saving" of a high school by a concerned citizen group, without seeking government aid or a public donation drive, is as rare as it is commendable. Students and parishioners of the 20 Catholic schools destined to close in June must be envious of what Ypsilanti St. John's has accomplished.

Saving St. John's was a shining example of what people can accomplish by themselves, without outside aid or interference, when they are sufficiently motivated and the cause is just enough, as was the case with the high school. By keeping the school open the entire area benefits—we can proudly stick another feather in our community hat.

Washington Report

Soviet propaganda attests To Sino-Soviet hostility

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
WASHINGTON — With its bombastic anti-China propaganda, based on recent Sino-Soviet border clashes, the Kremlin is trying to give another black eye to Mao Tse-tung and check his soaring world ambitions.

Charging "premeditated provocation" by China, in a Japanese language broadcast, one Moscow commentator even asserted that Chinese Defense Minister Lin Piao was in Heilungkiang province, on the Soviet-China border along the Ussuri River, several days before the first border clash.

Lin Piao is an interesting target for current Moscow propaganda attacks, since he is generally assumed to be Mao's heir apparent. China experts here say Lin Piao is officially named as Mao's successor in a new constitution which is to go before the forthcoming Communist party congress.

Mao, now 75, is thought by the intelligence community here to be in poor health. He has, like his party associates, led a hard life. He is a chain smoker and is thought to have related ills of advancing years. China experts think it significant that Peking reports have been stressing the party chairman's blooming good health.

It is worth noting, however, that Lin Piao is also believed to be in poor health, frailer even than Mao. Like Mao, he is one of the party's old guard, and he spent several years of his life undergoing treatment in a sanitarium.

The age and health of China's rulers are important now. In the wake of Mao's ill-fated "great leap forward" of the late 1950s and the turmoil of the recent "cultural revolution," China experts here do not anticipate a quiet succession when Mao passes from the scene.

In stepping up their propaganda campaign, Kremlin leaders are assumed to have come to the same conclusion about a power transition in Red China.

If further proof was needed of the worsening relations between Moscow and Peking, the recent propaganda warfare has provided it. In similar terms, the Communist leaders of the two nations are bitterly attacking one another.

Reader praises school board

TO THE EDITOR:

I have been reading the pros and cons letters concerning the Willow Run School District millage election. I also have attended several meetings, and am appalled at the attitudes many people seem to have in regard to the school board. They act as if the board were there for the sole purpose of taking their precious money and squandering it.

These school board members were elected by you to represent your interest in seeing that your tax money is wisely spent to provide a good education for your children. These board members are parents of children going to our schools just like you and I — except that when they thought school matters could be handled better, they cared enough about it to do something about it. How many of you would give of your time, sweat, effort and pleasure to meet as often as they do and ponder over the many problems that they have to solve? I think it's about time the people of this district appreciated the dedication of these people toward making our school district a good one. I for one am grateful for the calibre of character, intelligence and integrity I have observed in our school board members.

'Difference is education'

TO THE EDITOR:

I have been reading with interest the letters to Elizabeth who triggered a barrage by enumerating the trials of her teacher husband while comparing his salary with the income of a factory worker. Since the controversy is of an endless type which will never be fully resolved, I will not become enmeshed in the salary issue. I will say, however, that Elizabeth's husband is in the more enviable position, since he could leave his teaching position and go to the factory if he so desired, but very few factory workers are equipped to leave the factory and become teachers. It is education that makes the difference.

Although it is rather late for most of us parents to revamp our lives and join the ranks of professional people, we can provide our children with the opportunity to do so. We can do this by supporting our schools financially and morally and by encouraging our children to take full advantage of the opportunities provided.

If on the other hand, we were to withdraw our financial support from the schools by failing to approve the required tax millage, who would be hurt? It is true that quite a number of our teachers would be temporarily inconvenienced by having to relocate... but teacher salaries would not be reduced. The subsequent curtailment of our educational program, however, could rob your child of the opportunity to enter a profession instead of a factory.

Mayor's 'opinion' refuted

TO THE EDITOR:

This letter is in reference to the article, "Housing Code Repeal Triggers Hot Debate" March 18. In the article it is Mayor Burton's considered opinion that the conservatives are using the housing code to divide the community. I was not aware that the conservatives were the ones responsible for this ordinance. I was under the impression that our city manager and the majority of the councilmen introduced, and are promoting at taxpayers expense, this ordinance.

With reference to City Hall being integrated, Mayor Burton seems to be the only one concerned enough to make mention of this fact. Why has Mayor Burton raised the issue of race on a housing code that has nothing to do with race, as this affects all citizens? It would seem our mayor is trying to divert our attention while the housing ordinance goes marching merrily down the road to successful destruction of this entire community.

It is my considered opinion that anyone opposed to Mayor Burton's "Considered opinion" should be prepared to have false accusations and insinuations hurled at them such as Councilman Bassett had and who seems to be the only member of the council concerned with what the people want rather than what the council wants.

An Editor's Outlook

'Outasites' cool it, But the over-30s Still do the work

In an effort to narrow the generation gap by at least a millimeter, I have invested $2 in two paperback books: "Flip's Groovy Guide to the Groups" and "Rock and Other Four-Letter Words."

I have been depressed by the reproaches of certain articulate, if not professional, youths to the effect that the over-the-hill 30-pluses don't even try to understand! So I'm trying, and I've been learning a lot.

For example, I've learned that while five combos, including the Beatles and the Monkees, remain Super Groups, there are, in the opinion of Flip, 25 Star Groups and 70 Groovy Groups. Maybe there are only 24 Star Groups because I see in the paper where Miami police, bearing a warrant for indecent performance, are hunting for the leader of the Doors.

Anyway, I'm engrossed in what Flip calls "outasite" personalities, and you have to be pretty outasite to think up names like Jefferson Airplane, Strawberry Alarm Clock, Grateful Dead, Electric Prunes and Country Joe and the Fish.

One outasite personality I particularly like is Randy California, the philosopher-guitarist of Spirit, who is famous for telling everybody, "Everything is everything!" I'm sure this comes on big after you think about it a lot, provided you have the time.

I also like the Who, whose newest mini-opera, "A Quick One While He's Away," must be a gasser. The Who is celebrated for breaking up at their instruments at the blowoff, and Flip says that the act that followed them at the Monterey International Pop Festival was driven to trying to burn their instruments in an effort to top the bill.

Flip points out that these people have very wide interests. Take the Lemon Pipers. Drummer Bill Albaugh likes to write "Happy Birthday" on school buildings. Guitarist Bill Bartlett, says Flip, spends his leisure time burning holes in his bedspread and smoking spinach. Steve Walmsley "feels uncomfortable around over-30 types" and likes to catch passing freight cars.

The width of the generation gap comes through chillingly when Flip reports that Tom Richards of the Royal Guardsmen flips over antique cars, particularly his 1931 Ford. I once owned a new 1930 Ford. It's tough to think that the Beatles and Peter, Paul and Mary are now over 30 and no longer dug by Steve Walmsley. The great thing about youth is that it's the common experience all adults have, but the hang-up is that it tends to poop out.

Still, according to the groovy quotes in my copy of "Rock and Other Four-Letter Words," many hip musicians under 30 are pretty sure they can straighten things out fast.

Judy Collins says, "We are a generation of Whole People."

Mick Jagger of the Rolling Stones is disturbed at current immorality — "the immorality of the war in Vietnam, persecution of homosexuals and the illegality of abortion and drug-taking."

Terry Kirkman of the Association recalls: "Like with me, I was in college and I walked into this history class and the instructor went BRRRRRR-R-R! like a machine gun—man he just shot down the U.S. of A. I mean the whole image. He was my only guidepost toward a little reality, a little truth."

By
Jenkin
Lloyd
Jones
Editor,
Tulsa Tribune

Eric Burdon of the Animals says: "The drug experience may not prove much in the long run, but it has taught us that to be deranged is not necessarily to be useless."

Says Peter Townshend of the Who: "The past two generations have made such a colossal mess of the world that they have to step down and let us take over."

And Jim Morrison of the Doors: "We're interested in anything about revolt, disorder, chaos and activity that appears to have no meaning."

This, as near as I can get it, is the essence of this wonderful new age of honesty. Best of all, it's a sort of easy honesty. You can drop out, shack up, freak out or just lie on the beach at Big Sur. The squares must send food because they are phony and you are real.

Rules turn you off. Who wants to hear reveille? It's more fun to go to Canada than to war. It's more fun to burn down old Main than to turn it through the exams. Youth is clean, even if the pads and needles are dirty.

Of course, if it comes around to getting a bridge built or having brain surgery even the grooviest guy or chick might want to hunt up a square.

McGovern And Hart To give talks

LANSING (AP) — Sens. Philip Hart, D-Mich., and George McGovern, D-South Dakota, will be featured speakers at the annual Democratic Jefferson-Jackson Day program today in Detroit.

Hart will speak at a noon luncheon sponsored by the Federation of Democratic Women in the Veterans Memorial Building. McGovern will be the speaker at the evening dinner in Cobo Hall.

The state Democratic party political reform commission will hold an afternoon meeting. Topics to be discussed will include proposed changes in the presidential selection process and convention rules and procedures.

Through The Press files

20 YEARS AGO

March 29, 1949 — Jim Christos, Ypsilanti High School senior, prepared to speak in zone competition today after winning the district oratory contest sponsored by the American Legion.

Christos, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Christos of 56 E. Cross St. spoke on "The Constitution in a Changing World" to take the district championship over a Jackson High School student.

Today he is in Battle Creek competing among a field of 15 in a speech-fest. Should Christos go on to win the state title, it would mark the fourth consecutive year that the honor was brought to Ypsilanti High school.

Normal College board growers officially promised to "love, honor, and not shave" their beards when they sign the contest scroll at McKenny Hall.

Anyone who signs the scroll and then shaves is subject to sentencing by a kangaroo court.

50 YEARS AGO

March 29, 1919 — President of the Normal College Charles McKenny said that the state is facing an educational crisis because of its lack of teachers.

Only about half of the graduating class of fifty new educators were on hand to receive their diplomas yesterday. The others were already en route to fill teaching commitments.

On May 30th the clerks of the Ypsilanti post office will host the mail clerks of Michigan when the annual state convention is held in Ypsilanti.

About 150 delegates are expected to attend.

Besides the regular order of business an afternoon of auto sightseeing in the area is planned.

75 YEARS AGO

March, 1894 — A Cosmorama of Art and Fun is the name of the entertainment to be given by the Young Women's Christian Association in Cleary Hall Tuesday.

Nearly 100 young people are participating. Activities include music, tableau, fan drill, lantern drill, living pictures and club swinging.

Special costumes have been made and everyone is busy rehearsing.

'Man of peace' is theme of tributes to Ike

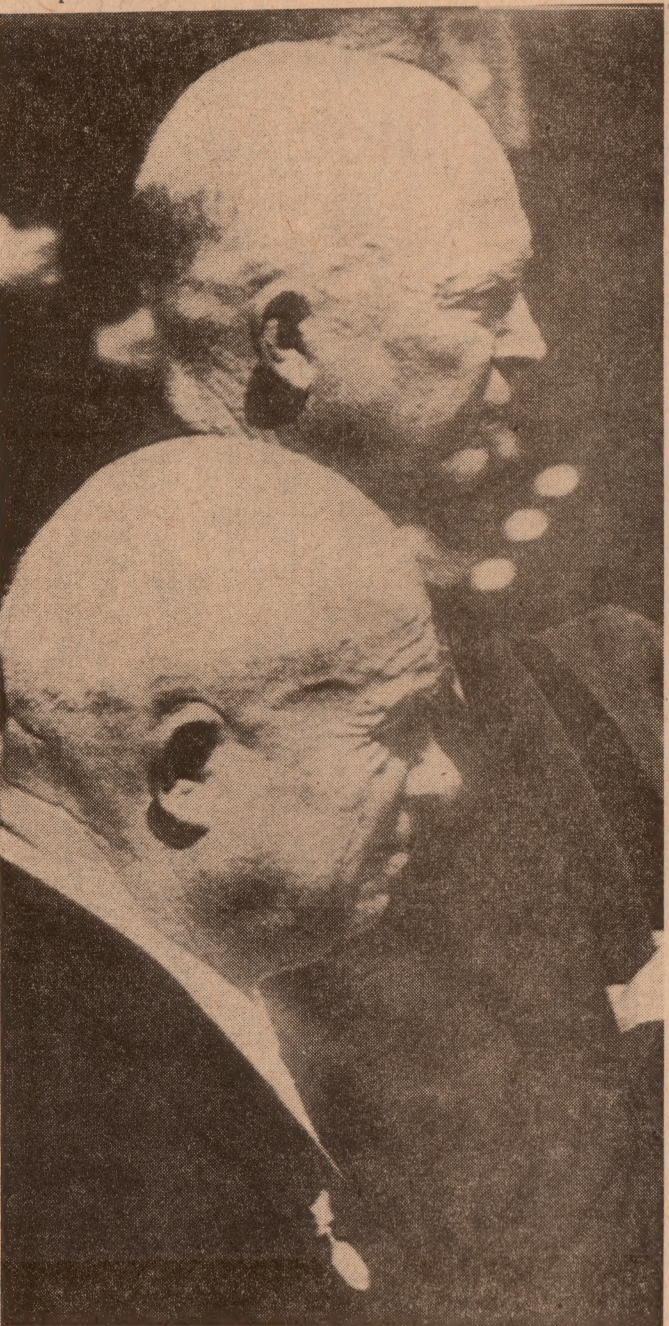

WASHINGTON (AP) — Throughout the tribute to Dwight D. Eisenhower that flowed today from national and world leaders ran one refrain that would have pleased the wartime general—Man of peace.

"As long as men cherish their freedom," said President Nixon, "Dwight Eisenhower will stand with them, as he stood during war and peace: strong, confident and courageous."

"Even in death he has left us a great spirit that will never die."

Eisenhower's military and political leadership for a quarter century was marked, Nixon said, by "a moral authority seldom equalled in American life."

"I salute him," said the President, "as soldier, statesman and peacemaker."

Cong offensive Near to Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and government forces fought 10 battles across South Vietnam—one the closest to Saigon since the Viet Cong launched their spring offensive—and three American aircraft were shot down, military spokesmen said today.

The fighting left 251 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese dead at a cost of seven Americans and 10 South Vietnamese killed and 74 Americans and 30 government soldiers wounded.

One of the downed aircraft was an Air Force B-57 twin-engine bomber, hit by ground fire Thursday near the coastal city of Qui Nhon. The crewmen were rescued uninjured. The plane was the 351st fixed-wing aircraft lost over South Vietnam.

The other two were helicopters, whose loss sparked a 2 1/2-hour firefight only six miles northeast of Saigon, the closest fighting to the capital in the five-week-old offensive.

Spokesmen said an observation helicopter from the U.S. 1st Infantry Division backed up by a gunship were reconnoitering the outskirts of Saigon Friday when Viet Cong gunners opened up with machine guns. They downed the observation craft, which was later salvaged, and then hit the gunship as it swooped to help. The gunship was destroyed and a crewman was killed.

Infantrymen of the 1st Division, patrolling the same area, sought out the enemy and clashed with about 30 Viet Cong soldiers. They reported killing 10 at a cost of one American wounded.

In the central highlands early this morning, North Vietnamese troops assaulted a night bivouac of a 4th Infantry Division unit under cover of a 50-round mortar barrage. Headquarters said several North Vietnamese broke through an outer perimeter of the camp 245 miles northeast of Saigon, hurling satchel charges at the defenders.

At daybreak the attackers were repulsed with the help of helicopter gunships. U.S.

casualties were two killed and 25 wounded. Enemy casualties were not known.

Far to the north, three miles below the demilitarized zone, American infantrymen and two tanks from the 5th Mechanized Division killed 68 North Vietnamese in more than eight hours of fighting Friday.

Panel to probe Lives of Judges

LANSING (AP) — A special commission is being established in Michigan to investigate judges, the decisions they hand down and their private lives if necessary.

Known as the Judicial Tenure Commission, the seven lawyers, one doctor and a retired university president have begun thrashing out the rules which they will ask the State Supreme Court to approve.

The commission met Friday for the first time and chose as acting chairman John H. Gillis, State Court of Appeals justice.

Gillis said the commission's purpose is to investigate citizen complaints of misconduct or lack of qualification by judges and to restore public confidence in the state's courts.

He gave no details of pending cases but admitted, "We have read there will be a case brought in to us in the very near future."

The commission is expected to have sweeping power. It will report to the Supreme Court and may make confidential investigation of any complaints it wishes.

While the commission has the power to expose, it is expected to do much of its work out of public view, Gillis said. One of its concerns will be urging older judges to retire if they appear unable to keep up with case loads, he added.

"At this point we do not know exactly what cases we might get," Gillis explained.

Members of the commission would serve without pay. A bill introduced in the Legislature would allow them $50,000 for expenses, but Gillis said the commission initially will use the facilities of the court administrator's office.

The commission was authorized under a constitutional amendment recently approved by voters.

The weather forecast

U.S. Weather Bureau

Tonight — Variable cloudiness with occasional periods of snow flurries. Low of 7-12.

Tomorrow and Monday — Continued variable cloudiness and snow flurries. High tomorrow in the upper 20s.

Precipitation probability — 30 per cent tonight and tomorrow.

Winds — Northwesterly at 15-25 m.p.h. tonight and tomorrow.

"America will be a lonely land without him," said former President Lyndon B. Johnson, calling Eisenhower a "crusader for peace."

"But America," Johnson said, "will always be a better nation—stronger, safer, more conscious of its heritage, more certain of its destiny—because Ike was with us when America needed him."

Eisenhower once said he wanted to be remembered for his contributions to world peace not for his command of the allied armies that liberated Europe in World War II.

And he was.

"He fought as a general," said Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., "who understood the hopelessness of war—and brought the hope of a lasting peace."

Said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.: "The causes for which he crusaded—the freedom of men and the peaceful alliance of nations—are still worthy goals of free people."

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant paid this tribute: "He was a strong and practical supporter of the United Nations, where he is remembered especially for his initiative in promoting international cooperation in the peaceful uses of atomic energy."

Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Eisenhower unified the free world's efforts to end World War II and recognized early that the Cold War must give way to peaceful coexistence.

"Though trained as a warrior," Humphrey said, "he was one of our nation's greatest peacemakers."

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., remembered Eisenhower as the leader who ended the fighting in Korea and warned against a military-industrial complex.

"Time has confirmed his judgement in a most dramatic way and again we honor him," Fulbright said.

Former President Harry S. Truman counted among Eisenhower's greatest achievements his role in helping strengthen postwar Europe.

"Gen. Eisenhower and I became political opponents," Truman said in a statement, "but before that we were comrades in arms, and I cannot forget his services to his country and to Western civilization."

French President Charles de Gaulle extolled Eisenhower's military leadership while other European heads of state remembered his efforts to strengthen postwar ties.

"The name of Gen. Eisenhower remains gloriously tied to the victory of 1945, to which he contributed in a striking manner," De Gaulle said. "For me, I see disappear with much sadness a dear companion in arms and a friend."

Tankers like 'Sheridans'

SAIGON (AP) — American combat tankmen concede the newly-deployed Sheridan tanks in Vietnam have some major problems, but none that cannot be solved.

They do not agree with charges by Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., who said this week that the new 16-ton tank is unsuited for the fighting in Vietnam. After greeting their deployment with much reservation, the tank commanders are gaining respect for the Sheridans.

"I like the Sheridan," says Col. George S. Patton Jr., commander of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment and son of the famed World War II general.

"It has no more bugs in it than any other new weapon. Any time a new weapons system is introduced there are always defects. The Sheridan has greatly increased our combat capability. We've had three heavy engagements and the Sheridans have been largely responsible for our success in these engagements. I would like to have more of them." Capt. Samuel W. Bartholomew of Kingsport, Tenn., of the 3rd Squadron, 4th Cavalry, 25th Infantry Division, lists two major problems:

—The sophisticated electrical firing system, which at times has malfunctioned and prevented the main gun, a 152mm cannon, from firing in combat.

—The instability of the shell used in the main gun, which is vulnerable to breaking apart and exposing the powder, thus making it susceptible to fires and explosions in battle.

Stratton charged Tuesday the Army has issued some 20 pages of restrictions on the Sheridan's operations. Patton and Bartholomew said they knew of no 20 pages of restrictions.

"We have maintenance guidelines, manuals, as new equipment is built and tested," said Bartholomew. "There were fuel tank leaks. We've had problems with them but nothing big. Technical representatives have demonstrated and shown how the leaks can be stopped and controlled. Since then we've had no problems."

Stratton said the tank was so noisy it could be heard for three miles and its heavy exhaust smoke made it an easy target.

Patton replied: "I know of no increase in noise and smoke as opposed to armored personnel carriers. Anytime you have a mechanized vehicle, you always have noise."

Debate hits Third day On Israel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council began a third day of debate today on Israel's air raid against Jordan, trying to finish before Big Four talks on the Middle East expected to start next week.

Diplomatic sources said Soviet, U.S., British and French U.N. ambassadors would meet in New York Thursday to start talks on how to settle the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

But in Cairo, the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said Egypt has already rejected a U.S. proposal for peace, submitted to the other three powers in preparation for the meeting.

The U.S. plan is understood to have called for the Arabs and Israel to reach a voluntary, contractual peace agreement.

The Big Four meetings are expected to continue for several months at the countries' missions in New York. Preliminary bilateral talks started Feb. 11.

The Security Council is considering a Jordanian resolution calling for an armistice on the town of Salt in which 18 persons were killed.

ground commander under Eisenhower, said, "I am very distressed. I want to be left alone now."

Queen Elizabeth II said the general's death will be keenly felt in the British Commonwealth as well as in America.

"He will always be warmly remembered here," she said, "for his presence among us in the war years as a great soldier and leader of the allied forces and later ... for his statesmanship which did much to further the cause of understanding between our two countries."

West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger also noted Eisenhower's postwar efforts.

"We honor the memory of this great American who after World War II worked untiringly for safeguarding peace and freedom in the world and who, in the pursuit of these great aims, promoted a close and trustful cooperation between our two peoples."

She writes Medieval-mode music

A shortage of Irish harp music brought a bonus for the Ladies' Literary Club this week when Miss Julia de Lacy presented an afternoon concert.

For Miss de Lacy, who plays a harp her father built especially for her, shared some of her own arrangements she has written in the Irish mode, explaining to her audience that there is so little music written for the Irish harp that she writes her own arrangements.

"Playboy of the Western World," a musical performed by University of Michigan Players, were included in the performance. And she concluded with "Galway Bay."

The Irish brogue and the Welsh and other accents that she used in singing added to the audience's enjoyment of the songs.

Miss de Lacy was introduced by Mrs. Susan McCulloch for the program, following devotions read by Mrs. Lorenz Kisor and a report by the club president, Mrs. Allen B. Wiedman, on the Federated Women's Clubs convention in Detroit earlier in the week.

Miss de Lacy's harp was done with study into the history of the Irish harp, but with Mr. Lacy ending up using his own design, basing it on that of some of the later Irish harps. Everything but the strings was made from scratch, including all the metal work, she explains.

Thrift Shop donates Shoes, aids families

Eleven members of the Thrift Shop Board met on Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. Pearl Rossback, treasurer of the organization, for a coffee hour.

The social service committees report noted the purchase of seven pairs of shoes for needy children this month, the purchase of a Girl Scout uniform, and transportation to and from nursery school for a small boy.

Two loans were made — one for rent and one for furniture to replace that stolen from an apartment. These needs were brought to the attention of the Thrift Shop by various social service organizations.

Donations of merchandise to the shop on S. Washington St. are accepted from any interested persons as well as from members. Such items as records, jewelry and knickknacks are particularly needed at this time.

Here's a different living room decorating idea: An accent wall of textured or sculptured ceramic tiles. The play of both natural and artificial light on the three-dimensional tile surfaces can be quite dramatic, says the Tile Council of America.

When wax paper isn't wide enough to do the job you have for it, you can increase the width easily by pressing two pieces together with a warm iron.

EMU man weds Erickson teacher

Miss Mary Jane Beadle, a teacher at Erickson Elementary School, became the bride of Paul D. Tramontin, Jr., an Eastern Michigan University student, in a ceremony at the St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church in Ann Arbor last evening.

The 7 p.m. ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Fr. Francis P. Srebernak.

Both the newlyweds are Ann Arbor residents. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Beadle and the bridegroom's parents are the Paul D. Tramontins, all of Ann Arbor.

After their wedding, their reception took place in the Knights of Columbus Hall in Ann Arbor. The newlyweds are taking a wedding trip to Canada and Florida.

For the wedding, the bride's sister, Patricia, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Arthur Rogers of Ann Arbor, Miss Kay Spencer of Ann Arbor and Miss Evelyn Sammons of Utica.

Best man was the bridegroom's brother, Joseph, and ushers were David Otwell and Marc Koenings, both of Ann Arbor, the bride's brothers, James and Michael, and the bridegroom's brother, Michael.

Both the newlyweds are graduates of St. Thomas High School in Ann Arbor. The bride is a graduate of Western Michigan University and teaches fourth grade at Erickson.

The bridegroom, a junior in marketing at EMU, is employed by the Tramontin Tile Co. in Ann Arbor.

For her wedding, the bride wore an Empire gown of cloud white organza, with peau D'Ange lace forming the bodice, forming a flounce on the sleeves and edging the full chapel train. She carried white stephanotis with light pink roses.

Her bridesmaids wore American Beauty red gowns with lace trimming the neckline, elbow-length sleeves and panel train. They carried purple and pink nosegays.

The couple's rehearsal dinner was held Thursday evening at Weber's in Ann Arbor.

Tiawan mission work told

Problems of promoting Christianity on the Island of Taiwan were given a personal report for the Birthday Bible Group at a luncheon meeting Thursday afternoon.

The Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Dunn, whom the Ypsilanti women's group has sponsored in missionary work since 1943, spoke to the women and their guests. The Duns are on a furlough, having been working in Taiwan for the past four years. They have worked there and earlier on the mainland of China since they went there during World War II.

Mrs. Dunn is the daughter of the late Dan L. Patch, who came during World War II to be chief of police, having retired previously as Highland Park chief. He was a close friend of the Rev. William Shaw, then a Baptist pastor here. Other sponsors of the Duns in their mission work have been the Highland Park Baptist Church and the Grace and Bethany Bible Churches.

For the meeting attended by 26 members with several husbands as guests, at the First Baptist Church, the church's Rev. William Bingham gave the invocation and the group's president the Rev. Melvin Ryberg, closed the meeting.

of Chinese on Taiwan, the Duns explained the difficulties in reaching them with the Christian religion. They have instituted a bookmobile to sell Christian books, and it has sold the equivalent of $50,000 worth of books in the past year. Previously, they explained, they offered Sunday school, reaching many Buddhists, but now the Buddhists are teaching their own Sunday Schools.

They showed slides of the colorful gardens and markets, of Buddhist temples, and of the bookmobile. And they spoke of training now under way of missionaries against the time when mission work, that went on for over 100 years, can resume on the China mainland.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

★ By SYDNEY OMARR ★

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

"The wise man controls his destiny ... Astrology points the way."

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Avoid excess. Be moderate. Applies especially in dealing with one close to you. Argument over what could be is foolish. Concentrate on what is — make the most of current situation.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Much comes out into open. Difficult to keep secrets. Talkative friend could upset apple cart. Don't be careless in confiding important material. Best to be discreet.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Question of what can be afforded is paramount. Don't take on too much of a financial burden. One who spins web of dreams is merely being dramatic. Stick to practical course.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Don't be too hasty in embarking upon journey. Additional details are required. Relatives today appear confused. Argument gets nowhere. Best to be a patient listener. But hold fast to principles.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Fresh ideas can be successfully utilized. You can attract money if outmoded concepts are discarded. Realize this and act accordingly. Welcome new contacts — especially in romantic area.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Day to settle disputes. Heal emotional wounds. Applies particularly to mate, partner. A hunch today could pay dividends. Follow through; be true to inner feelings. Circumstances turn in your favor.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Changes due. Day features excitement due to discovery. Accent on clash of ideas. Your convictions are worth defending. Stimulation of greater self-knowledge is highlighted.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Shakeup due in special group, organization, club or place of employment. Be ready to assume new duties. Have facts at hand. Your opinion is sought; give it with air of authority.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Some friends may disagree. Maintain neutral stance. Not wise to become involved in matter that does not concern you. Changes due — based on ideas you contribute.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Home adjustment required. Get family backing. There is no need for disagreement. Slight concession can make all the difference. Discussion of travel occupies spotlight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Some illusions may evaporate. You find what is true and otherwise. Face facts as they exist. Accent is on earning capacity of one close to you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Reward due for efforts. Know this and stick to project. Additional capital could be forthcoming. You get encouragement from unorthodox source.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are due to finish an important project — successfully. You have imagination but are capable of handling practical affairs. If single, marriage could be on horizon.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Breakthrough in communications connected with space program is indicated.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A YOUNG LADY expressed consternation at the news that her wealthy eighty-year-old grandfather had up and married his twenty-two-year-old secretary. "I can understand," she told her husband, "what December can see in May—but what, I ask you, is May going to find in December?"

Her husband answered, "Christmas."

Robert Perloff writes about a housewife who decided it was time to discard the chipped and cracked housewares that were part of her wedding gifts. She broached the subject to her parsimonious spouse, an avid stamp collector, urging him to sally forth and buy some new dishes, kitchen utensils, and similar wares. At the same time, she tried to butter him up with ecstatic praise for his stamp-collecting prowess. She had no luck, however. He eyed her reproachfully and informed her, "My dear, philately will get you no ware."

OVERHEARD:

Post-debutante to a very dear, dear friend: "That's a stunning gown you're wearing—or did I tell you that last season?"

Patron leaving movie palace: "I liked the book a bit better. At least I could swat flies with it."

One angel in heaven to another: "What a pleasant surprise to bump into you here. I thought you were alive!"

Sunday, Monday Viewing highlights

SUNDAY

(eve.) — NBC—On Stage—(CHOICE VIEWING)
 Henry Denker's drama "The Choice" is the third production this season in a distinguished series. Melvyn Douglas, Celia Johnson, George Grizzard and Frank Langella are starred. The David Susskind production concerns the plight of a doctor who must decide between an aging American diplomat and a young pianist as to which should receive a heart transplant. The hour drama, taped in Canada, uses film footage from an actual heart transplant. It's a first for a TV drama.

(aft.)—CBS—Young People's Concerts—(SPECIAL)
 Leonard Bernstein's second show of the season is devoted to an all-Bach program. Leopold Stokowski makes a rare appearance on network TV when he guest conducts the New York Philharmonic in a Bach selection. In offering three pieces by Johann Sebastian Bach in their original forms and new treatments, Bernstein says, "It's Bach switched on, turned on, rocked, rolled, shaken and baked."

(eve.) — CBS—The 21st Century—(CHOICE VIEWING)
 "Art for Tomorrow" examines how artists are reacting to and using science and technology to create new art forms. At Massachusetts Tech, a Greek sculptor is trying, with the help of science, to transcend purely visual art and render visible the invisible forces of nature, such as magnetism and electricity. Walter Cronkite also reports on other experiments in London and Paris.

(eve.) — CBS—Mission: Impossible
 At long last Jim Phelps has a little romance enter his otherwise dedicated life. Joan Collins guests as a seductive double agent. Phelps (Peter Graves) almost blows a vital project to remove a list of defectors from an enemy embassy when he falls in love with her. Miss Collins looks especially appealing because of the imaginative camera work of Stu Haggman.

(eve.) — NBC—Laugh-In—(CHOICE VIEWING)
 Evangelist Billy Graham puts in a cameo appearance, which he says isn't too unusual. "A lot of people thought that I should have been here a long time ago," he adds. Elsewhere in the hour, there's a runner about Army life: Dan is a lieutenant who busts in on his men in their quarters and says, "All right, as you were" — and they go back to dancing with each other. There's a Mod, Mod look at vaudeville and, oh yes, a surprise for the old lecher (Arte Johnson) when he makes a pass at Ruth Buzzi on this last show of the season.

(morn.) NBC — It Takes Two—(Premiere)
 It isn't exactly what TV needs — another game show, that is — but the audience that watches these funcasts in the morning will probably take to this as they have the others. Vin Scully makes his debut as host-emcee. Los Angeles Dodgers baseball fans will tell you he certainly has the gift of gab, and should do right nicely. It's a question-and-answer thing with guest panelists. This week: Shelley Berman, Richard Long, Mike Connors and their wives.

(eve.) — ABC — Joey Bishop Show
 Joey takes on another movie premiere tonight. This time it's the Hollywood premiere of "Sweet Charity," with all the "oohs and aahs" of those walking through the lobby of the Pantages. Also on his show at the studio are guests Connie Stevens, the Brothers Castro, cowboy Tim McCoy and comic Ray Hastings.

(eve.) — CBS—Carol Burnett Show
 Ronnie Schell, Vikki Carr join carol and the regulars tonight. Vikki and Carol team up as two scarecrows in "The Straight Life." In skits, a husband (Harvey Korman) is cured of his gambling habit, and a girl (Carol) steals a red barn summer show from a Broadway ham.

DEAR ABBY:

Mom should question Cause of unpopularity

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 DEAR ABBY: I have an 8-year-old son who comes home crying nearly every day that somebody "hit" him. I tell him he should hit them back, but he says he doesn't like to fight.

I have talked to other mothers on the block, and they say a boy has to learn how to protect himself, and if he does, the other boys won't bully him so much.

I am not crazy about the idea of my kid getting beat up all the time, so I tell him to stay by himself. He doesn't listen to me. He goes where the other kids are, knowing he can't get along with them and is going to end up getting hit and crying. So what is your opinion, Abby? His Mother

DEAR MOTHER: I think every boy should learn how to defend himself, but yours may also have to learn how to get along better with the other kids.

DEAR ABBY: A cousin of mine made the mistake of jotting a footnote on her Christmas card to the effect that they "miss their two children who are away at college this year." My husband is the world's castiest free-loader, and he immediately figured that they had some spare room, so we could go there for our vacation!

I can just see the role I am going to have to play to compensate for the free rooms. I'm sure my cousin wouldn't expect me to do all the cooking and housework, but what woman can move in on two people and not offer to do some work?

We have an 8-room house and, frankly, I'd like to get away from household chores on my vacation.

What do you suggest? Just the Housekeeper

DEAR JUST: If you let your husband rope you into this kind of a "vacation"—you'll deserve it.

DEAR ABBY: I hope this doesn't sound like I am bragging, because I'm not.

I married when I was 16, and now, 19 years later, we have as happy a home as anyone could find anywhere.

These are some of the things I've done to make it so?

In the morning I wake my husband with a cup of fresh coffee and the morning paper. I've done this for years, but he always thanks me as though it is the first time.

When he comes home in the evening, I again have fresh coffee made and the afternoon paper. Regardless of what they are doing, the children always run to the door to greet him.

Before he gets home I make sure I have a fresh dress on, and that my face is nicely made up, my hair combed, and when he comes in I leave all my problems of the day until he has had his dinner and had time to relax. And then I only bring them up if they are important.

Finally, after our evening meal, we read some passages of the Bible together and pray as a family.

When so many marriages are going on the rocks I simply offer these things as suggestions for a happy home. Mrs. R. S., San Angelo, Tex.

DEAR MRS. S.: What a beautiful life you have. May it ever be thus. I'll print your letter as an inspiration to others.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for suggesting to a reader who wanted to express his appreciation to you by giving you money that, instead, he send it to his local Mental Health association.

I am sure that any association would welcome this gift but if he really wanted to show his appreciation, he might offer the most valuable gift of all—himself. More than money, we are interested in personal involvement.

Most associations have volunteer programs where a lay person can spend practically any amount of time doing any number of things to aid the mentally ill. Perhaps even more important than the services provided for the patient, is the fact that the volunteer may come to realize that a "mental patient" is still a human being, and not someone to be feared. Thanks, Abby, Nancy Gannon, South Bend, Ind.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, in care of The Press, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1.00 to Abby, in care of The Press.

DR. BROTHERS:

Skin registers stress As the buffer to world

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS
 How much of your health is in your head, or is it all in your mind? Does your mental attitude really affect your physical being? If you'd like to check your views with some experts — here's your chance!

1. The skin is rarely affected by our mental state. TRUE—FALSE—

2. There is likely to be little relationship between one's actual physical health and one's own personal view of it. TRUE—FALSE—

3. Yuppies and hippies tend to have more tooth decay and gum infection than do more conventional youngsters of the same age. TRUE—FALSE—

4. Your skin may sometimes communicate your feelings much faster than your words. TRUE—FALSE—

5. Because of added tensions and responsibilities, male white collar workers are more likely to think of themselves as unhealthy than are blue collar workers. TRUE—FALSE—

6. People of lower education tend to think of themselves as being more robust and generally healthier than those with more education. TRUE—FALSE—

7. If you have emotional problems, you are much more likely to have canker sores and Vincent's infection or trenchmouth. TRUE—FALSE—

8. The person who consistently answers a casual, or a need to be punished and pitied.

"How are you?" with details of illness probably has feelings of guilt and wants to suffer. TRUE—FALSE—

ANSWERS

1. FALSE. Dr. Joseph Eller, the late President Kennedy's dermatologist, says certain skin diseases are due entirely to, or are aggravated by, mental illness or emotional states. The skin is of great psychological importance because of its unique position between the body and the outside world.

2. FALSE. Recent studies show there is a strong relationship between an individual's personal judgment about his health and what his doctor says about it. In one study, 75 per cent of those ranked in the highest health group by medical yardsticks correctly said their health was good, and only 2 per cent in the poorest health group said their health was good.

3. TRUE. This is due in part, according to Dr. Martin Protell, to their determined defiance of toothpaste ads. They often link cleanliness to middle class values, he says, and the dirtier and more unkempt the clothing and hair, do, the dirtier the mouth." Dr. Protell feels that emotional tension and anxiety play a crucial part in the development or cause of dental disease in people of all ages and all dental habits.

4. TRUE. The skin may involuntarily communicate to others information about your emotional state. You may blush with embarrassment, turn pale with fear or break out in perspiration from nervous tension.

5. FALSE. A recent study made by Dr. Howard Rosenkrantz and Dr. C. T. Pihlblad, showed that male white collar workers rated their health 8 per cent higher than blue collar workers and 11 per cent higher than farmers.

6. FALSE. As income and education increase, it seems that individuals tend to view their health more favorably. Welfare recipients consider their health as poorer than non-welfare recipients and there is a strong and constant relationship between educational achievement and favorable health evaluation for both men and women.

7. TRUE. Dr. Martin Protell, a dentist, feels the mouth is a barometer of the personality of the individual. Anxiety is definitely closely related to physical disorders of the gums, teeth and mouth generally. Students cramming for exams are frequently victims of trenchmouth. Dr. Morton Golden says that less saliva is produced when there is tension, and that this reduction can lead to a condition which may enhance decay.

8. TRUE. According to Dr. Allan Fromme, psychosomatic illness often expresses a sense of guilt which creates a need for suffering

YOUR HEALTH:

Naso-genital link is Peculiar phenomenon

DR. LESTER COLEMAN
 One of the strange occurrences in medicine is a peculiar but definite phenomenon called the naso-genital relationship. Experimentation for many years has revolved around the congestions of the nose during the menstrual cycle and during some stages of pregnancy. Many years ago, it was reported that the fertility of a guinea pig could be altered by the application of certain drugs to the nose.

Now there is a reactivation of interest in this idea. Research scientists are testing a group of substances known as prostaglandins which are arousing almost as much enthusiasm as did the first reports on the discovery of cortisone.

Known as PGs by the hundreds of research workers all over the world, they are being used for a large range of illnesses for which other treatment is unavailable. PGs resemble but are not exactly like hormones and are found in most of the tissues of the body. The highest concentration of PGs seems to be in the semen of men.

PGs are being used to clear up nasal congestion and to treat infertility. They seem to play an important role in the treatment of peptic ulcers of the stomach and intestines.

As research continues, more and more widely scattered uses are being discovered for this remarkable substance. It is indeed an additional ray of hope on the horizon of medicine.

PGs in their original and modified forms play a role in inducing labor for the birth of a child, in lowering blood pressure, in treating blood clots or thrombosis of blood vessels, and in increasing the fertility of the male. After intensive studies to be sure there are no toxic side-effects, these substances will be released to physicians everywhere.

Speaking of your health: Let strange dogs remain strange dogs. Don't pet them.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

TEEN DATELINE:

'Senior' wants to stay put

By ELE and WALT DULANEY
 Dear Ele and Walt: I have lived in this town all my life. I have done everything I could to make my family proud of me and to build a good name for myself among these people.

Now I am almost ready for the rewards. I am set to run for student body president of my high school. Right now no one wants to run against me because it is almost certain that I will win. I mention this not to brag but to show the respect I have won here.

The problem is that my father has decided to change his job and this will take us 500 miles away. He won't agree to postpone it one year because the new opening won't wait. And he won't allow me to seek housing in this town for my senior year.

I have tried every argument I can to change his mind but it's futile. What I need to know is what legal action I can take to stay on my own? — Desperate.

Dear Desperate: The law has no option for an under-18 minor; you must win dad's okay to stay. Since you've exhausted your own persuasion techniques, enlist a trio of adults to help; your student government advisor, principal or minister.

Together you might come up with some workable plans; where you could stay; how you could finance it; who'd be responsible for you; etc. Once you've reached a plan that seems valid to the trio, ask them to talk with your dad and offer their one-year services as guardians. It's your only hope. — Ele and Walt.

Life & Leisure: A guide for dedicated fun-lovers

What's at the movies tonight

THE SERGEANT: Rod Steiger lends characteristic power to this portrait of an army sergeant whose outward arrogance barely conceals a man torn by self-doubt and guilt. The film touches on such taboo subjects as homosexuality, but with the dignity and understanding necessary to justify them as an essential part of good cinema.—State

GREETINGS: Anti-establishment satire loosely wound on the theme of three youths passing time until they receive the inevitable "greetings" from their friendly draft board. Ranging from blackest comedy to sheer hilarity, the film is no less meaningful for the fact that it is also superbly entertaining. (X)—Fifth Forum

THE HEART IS A LONELY HUNTER: Carson McCullers' story of a deaf-mute too sensitive for the vulgar tragedies of this world, too compassionate for the people who inhabit it. A fragile film kept this side of sentimentality by Alan Arkin's flawless handling of the title role. —Martha Washington

HOT MILLIONS: Peter Ustinov ushers in the era of technologically advanced crime with a foolproof scheme for computerized embezzlement. Add to basic story line a high sense of comic flair and — Q.E.D. — a smashingly funny movie well worth anybody's evening. — Willow Drive-in

BLOW-UP: Michelangelo Antonioni's masterful handling of a photographer's accidental glimpse of a murder. All technical aspects — particularly the use of photography and music — blend into a solid organic experience which hits you emotionally and keeps you probing intellectually. David Hemmings and Vanessa Redgrave, both excellent. — Algier's Drive-in 2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY: Spectacular cinema effects have made Stanley Kubrick's futuristic epic one of the most well-deserved hits of the season. The relative absence of dialogue and narrative only increases the visual magnificence of a film which challenges all the unique possibilities of the film media. — Quo Vadis

RIOT: Filmed in the Arizona State Prison, the film aspires to a realistic recreation of the anger and frustration which drive inmates to a desperate bid for freedom. Unfortunately, realism has been interpreted to mean unrestrained violence, slapdash editing, weak acting and inadequate characterization. To quote Time, the film "is as effective as a convict chorus of 'Don't Fence Me In.'" — Ypsi-Ann Drive-in (with "Samson and Delilah"), Wayne Drive-in (with "Red Line 7000" and "Rowan and Martin at the Movies")

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL SHERIFF: A Western to end all Westerns... and it probably will, as it methodically reduces all the standard genre clichés to utter hilarity. James Garner plays the "stranger," Walter Brennan, "the vicious outlaw" and Joan Hackett, "the sweet young thing" in a film which is really too witty and intelligently amusing to claim a 'G' rating. — State-Wayne

RACHEL, RACHEL: A chronicle of human failure, of the perpetual spinster who turns everything she touches to sterility and defeat. Paul Newman's first attempt at direction may well establish him as an artist in a second field, while Joanne Woodward's performance proves, once again, her virtuosity as a character actress. — Martha Washington

THE FOX: Sandy Dennis, Anne Heywood and Keir Dullea turn in fine performances as the participants in a slightly macabre love triangle. The film distorts the original Lawrence story with an unnecessary emphasis on the more sordid aspects of the pervading sexual tension, but it is handled well enough to become a viable artistic alternative. — University Drive-in

CHARLY: Sensitive story of a mentally-retarded man given a second chance by a miraculous brain operation, and eventually plunged back into darkness when the new advance proves temporary. An easy candidate for embarrassing pathos, the film is saved by dedicated low-key direction and Cliff Robertson's almost loving portrayal of the ill-fated hero. (G) — La Parisen, Michigan

THE NIGHT OF THE FOLLOWING DAY: Marlon Brando has once again found a film worthy of his talents in Hubert Cornfield's chilling study of the pathology underlying the kidnapping of a young girl. Psychological acuity is matched by technical brilliance in a film which ranks among the best thrillers in recent memory. — Quo Vadis Penthouse II

THE IMPOSSIBLE YEARS: Take a perplexed parent unable to understand a rebellious 17-year-old daughter, throw in adolescent love interest with the boy next door, and put Dad David Niven's production on the line. It all adds up to another family situation cliché, rescued from the mundane only by superior acting and very clever direction. (G) — Milan, Willow and Algier's Drive-ins

CLOSELY WATCHED TRAINS: The tiny incident reflects the whole in this sensitive story of a youth who finds his manhood in almost simultaneous acts of passion and courage. Funny and touching, its universality derives from the very fact that it pretends to be no more than a simple human moment. — Fifth Forum

WAIT UNTIL DARK: Audrey Hepburn stars as a blind girl involved in a lethal game of blindman's buff with several desperate criminals. Generally routine chillerama, saved at the end by one of the most genuinely horrifying moments on the screen. — University Drive-in

FACES: The story of a marriage in the process of collapse, John Cassavetes' film focuses on a quartet of sad, frustrated people trying desperately to convince themselves that they are having a good time. Painfully and embarrassingly intimate, the film's great strength lies in the fact that the audience continues to watch what they would prefer not to, and comes away with a greater sense of identification than they might wish to feel. — Campus

BULLITT: Director Peter Yates has taken two movie clichés—the grimly honest cop in a corrupt world and one-dimensional "star" Steve McQueen — and made them both work. Artistically and technically superior; a cinema triumph. (M) Quo Vadis Penthouse I

Detroit

RAVEN GALLERY: Keyed to the quiet blues sound of Ron Coden, the Raven is a nice cozy place where friends — old and new ones — get together for an evening off the town. — Raven Gallery, 29101 Greenfield, Southfield; shows nightly at 9:30 and 10:30, 11:30 on weekends; cover $1.50 during the week, $2.50 Friday and Saturday

RED GARTER: Detroit branch of the great chain that marks a favorite night-spot in most of the major cities. Old-time music of banjos, musical saws and the honkiest piano around. Peanuts and pretzels with beer and cocktails from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. nightly. — 1246 Library behind Hudson's; $1 cover on Friday and Saturday nights;

Blaine Ballard will direct the Eastern Michigan University Choir in an oratorio concert tomorrow night to mark the advent of Holy Week.

Our best to you...

PALM SUNDAY CONCERT: For the sixth consecutive year, the EMU Choir, assisted by the University-Civic Orchestra will mark the Holy Day with a major oratorio concert. Under the direction of Blaine Ballard, the Choir will present two works by the great Hungarian composer, Zoltan Kodaly. The "Te Deum" will feature faculty soloists Emily Lowe (soprano), Virginia Robinson (mezzo-soprano), Oscar Henry (tenor) and Charles Roe (baritone). The second piece, "Psalmus Hungaricus," will feature guest tenor Jean Deis. — EMU Peace Auditorium; Sunday at 8 p.m.; admission free.

Art

MICHIGAN ARCHITECTURE will be the featured subject for a photography exhibit opening tomorrow in the main library of the EMU Library. The collection will include shots of houses, public buildings and historic sites which distinguish the architecture of our state. — EMU Library; through April 24, with galleries open daily from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Indians not citizens

American Indians were often referred to as "non-citizen nationals" until an act of the United States Congress made them full citizens.

From Guy Lombardo at the south end of the Strip to Fred Waring downtown, nostalgia-seeking tourists turned back the clock to hear "All of Me," "A Cottage for Sale," and "It's a Lonesome Old Town."

Russ Morgan, Sarah Vaughan, Duke Ellington, Harry James, Louis Prima, Ray Anthony and Sy Zentner are some of the others headlining the marquees.

And hotels were booking such names as Lionel Hampton, Woody Herman, Orrin

Tucker and Freddy Martin. "A younger entertainer might draw a larger audience," said Tropicana executive Harvey Diederich. "But I think Lombardo brings in an audience with more money."

THE MICHIGAN MEN'S GLEE CLUB will present their annual Spring Concert in Hill Auditorium this evening. The event will mark the last appearance of Dr. Philip Duey who has directed the group for the past 22 years. — U-M Hill Auditorium, Ann Arbor; 8:30 p.m. concert; tickets from $1.50 to $2.50.

A GOSPEL CONCERT will be presented this evening by the Cedarville College Choir. Their program will cover a full range of religious music. — Calvary Baptist Church, 409 Oaklawn; 7 p.m. concert; admission free.

SIXTEN EHRLING will return after a 3-week absence to conduct this evening's Detroit Symphony Orchestra concert. Maureen Forrester, contralto, will sing arias by Handel and Mozart and the Dvorak "Zigeunerlieder," while orchestral selections will include Penderecki's "To the Victims of Hiroshima," Debussy's "Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun" and Stravinsky's "Rites of Spring." — Ford Auditorium, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. concert; tickets $4 to $5.75.

THE ANN ARBOR SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA will present its final concert of the season tomorrow afternoon. Bassist Lawrence Hurst will be featured in a performance of Johan Sperger's Concerto in A major for double bass, a piece that has not been played in its entirety since 1778. Presentations of Silbelius' Symphony No. 2 in D major and Tchaikovsky's Capriccio Italienne will complete the program. — Pioneer High School Auditorium, Ann Arbor; 4 p.m. Sunday; admission free.

Theater

HAMLET: The Stratford National Theater of Canada presents a realistic "Hamlet" which attempts to recreate the chaotic, slightly uncivilized climate of 12th century Denmark as a backdrop for the prince's personal tragedy. Under the direction of John Hirsch, with Kenneth Welsh in the title role. — Lydia Mendelssohn Theater, S. Ingalls, Ann Arbor; 8 p.m. curtain; tickets from $2 to $6.

A LION IN WINTER: Original stage production of the now-popular film story about the political and familial intrigues which plague the court of Henry II. A behind-the-scenes look at would-be titans who are all too human. Produced by the University of Detroit Players under the direction of Alan Jorgenson. — Ford Life Sciences Bldg., U. of D.; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets $2.

Night life

BIMBOS: Original Old Thyme Saloon, replete with waiters in straw hats and red garters, peanut shells on the floor, and the "old thyme" sing-along music of Uncle Pat and the Gaslighters. Seven days a week, music every night for the "eat, drink and be merry" set. — Bimbos, 114 E. Washington; no cover.

GOLDEN FALCON: Dancing seven days a week to the big loud rock sounds of the now generation. Accommodations in another room for the quiet drinkers. — Golden Falcon; 312 S. 4th Ave.; must be 21.

POISON APPLE: Ingenious decor creating a little bit of Never-Never-Land in little old Detroit. Originally slated to include a seething caldron of forbidden fruit, the poison apple in question now refers to a wild drink that will knock you on your ear. But do try to catch a bit of the entertainment — mostly folksy and rather good — before hand. — Poison Apple, 13100 E. Jefferson, Detroit; cover $1 on weekdays, $1.50 on Saturdays.

AN ITALIAN STRAW HAT: "The horse that ate the hat" is the object of an epic pie-in-the-face chase in this delightful musical farce by Eugene Labiche. Produced by the EMU Players under the direction of P. George Bird with choreography by Virginia Koste. — EMU Quirk Theater; 8 p.m. curtain, Friday at 7 and 10 p.m.; tickets $1.75.

AMPHYTRION 38: Jean Giraudoux' "immortal" farce about the ribald god Jupiter's confrontation with the mating games of mortals. Under the direction of Douglas Seale. — Meadow Brook Theater, University of Oakland, Rochester; through April 13 with shows at 8:15 p.m., Sunday at 6:30 p.m.; tickets from $2 to $5.

DR. FAUSTUS: Christopher Marlowe's story of the man who sold his soul to the devil in exchange for the pleasures of the earthly realm. Produced by the world-famous Royal Shakespeare under the direction of Clifford Williams. — Fisher Theater, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets from $3 to $6.50.

The New York Rock and Roll Ensemble delivers a strictly contemporary interpretation of Bach in a special New York Philharmonic Young People's Concert, tomorrow afternoon at 4 on channel 2.

Sports

THE HARLEM GLOBETROTTERS are scheduled to wipe out the Washington Generals again tomorrow when the comic kings of the court take on their luckless rivals at Olympia Stadium. The most highly-acclaimed Globetrotter combination of them all, the team features Meadowlark Lemon, Fred Neal and Leon Hillard leading of 6-man circus that also happens to play the best ball around. Added features will include the usual Globetrotter half-time show, and a pre-game exhibition, bout with a team of Detroit sports broadcasters. — Olympia Stadium, 5920 Grand River, Detroit; Sunday at 2 p.m.; tickets $2, $3 and $3.50.

TV

PASSOVER OPERATA "The Final Ingredient," a new opera by David Amram and Arnold Weinstein, characterizes the first Seder held amidst the brutality and degradation of a Nazi concentration camp in 1944. Adapted from a screenplay by Reginald Rose, the operatic version stars Willma Covington, Joseph Sopher and Malcolm Smith. — Sunday at 1 p.m.; in color on Ch. 7.

BACH TRANSMOGRIFIED: Host Leonard Bernstein describes this special young people's concert as "Bach: switched on, turned on, rocked, rolled, shaken and baked." The Sock Bach program will include both traditional interpretations and stepped up versions of the same pieces, with artists ranging from guest conductor Leopold Stokowski to "those five mad geniuses who go by the name of the New York Rock and Roll Ensemble." — Sunday at 4 p.m.; in color on Ch. 4.

thur in the original story of the clash between homesteaders and cattlemen. — 9 p.m. Sunday; in color on Ch. 7.

SMOTHERS BROTHERS: Joan Baez and the Committee win at least one round in the battle over censorship in a rescheduling of the concert postponed from March 9. Promises to be one of the most controversial, as well as entertaining, hours of the season — 9 p.m.; in color on Ch. 2.

THE CHOICE: An original drama by Henry Denker focusing on the multitude of medical and ethical questions surrounding a proposed heart transplant. Melvyn Douglas and George Grizzard head an excellent cast. — Sunday at 10 p.m.; in color on Ch. 4.

NOTHING BUT A MAN: Ivan Dixon and Abbey Lincoln star in director Michael Roemer's 1965 attempt to look seriously and honestly at critical aspects of the race problem. On a bill with the comic short, "Bear Circus." — U-M Architecture Auditorium, Ann Arbor; tonight and Sunday at 7 and 9:05 p.m.; admission 75c.

LORD OF THE FLIES: Powerful film adaptation of William Goldings parable of the human condition. A group of young boys lost on a desert island form a microcosm for the human race to demonstrate the brooding evil lies just beneath the surface of so-called civilized behavior. — UCAE film at the Rackham Auditorium, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. showing; admission $1.

THE FRANKLIN VILLAGE BAND, a combo reminiscent of the days when a home-grown band was part of every community, will present a concert tomorrow afternoon in the properly-colonial setting of Greenfield Village. Although their repertory spans the music of many nations, tomorrow's program will highlight the great American composers and will include works by Stephen Foster and John Philip Sousa. — Henry Ford Museum Theater, Greenfield Village, Dearborn; Sunday at 3 p.m.; included in normal museum admission of $2 for adults and $1 for children.

Outdoors

THE WATER'S EDGE: If man is to live in harmony with nature, he must accept the challenge of protecting his environment from the dual dangers of natural and man-made destruction. This film, narrated by Wally Rentsch, focuses on the problems of water pollution and flooding and points up, in carefully contrasted sequences, the alternative approaches of indifference and careful concern. Instructive and highly entertaining. — Audubon film at Ann Arbor High School, Main and Stadium, Ann Arbor; tonight at 7:30 p.m.; admission $1.

BLOOD, SWEAT AND TEARS, a group rapidly moving to the fore of the new pop dimension, will appear in concert tomorrow on a bill with the Rationals and The Sunday Funnies. A best bet for a live appearance concert, the 8-man group is careful to avoid "studio" sounds, "I want B, S and T to sound like one big record," says group leader Cooper. If they really do, they've got it made. — Ford Auditorium, Detroit; Sunday at 7:30 p.m.; tickets $3.50, $4.50 and $5.50.

'Alchemist', 'Hamlet' are winners

By SUSAN CARROLL
Of The Press Staff

After a none-too-exciting season the PTP has finally come up with the winning combination, namely the Stratford National Theater's productions of "The Alchemist" and "Hamlet," which are now playing in repertory here in preparation for the summer season up north.

True, they start with good material. "The Alchemist," which opened Monday at the Mendelssohn, is a biting satire on the materialistic mentality of Elizabethan England that has only sharpened its teeth over three centuries and 3000 miles.

Somewhat removed from the playful touch of Moliere, Jonson is acid in his condemnation of the lust which motivates both the swindlers and the swindled. He ranges from the vicious to the obscene, and might be offensive were he not so funny.

The Stratford company is fully equal to his hilarious misanthropy. Each character in his incredible assemblage of originals emerges fully formed, threatening to steal the show with even his briefest struttings on the stage.

Powys Thomas (looking uncomfortable like LBJ) plays the alchemist to the hilt of self-righteous chicanery, masterful as his partner in crime, and Jane Casson playing their whore, religieuse and resident fairy queen with equal verve.

If anyone might be said to usurp top billing, however, it is William Hutt whose portrayal of the flamboyant Sir Episcure Mammon has to be exactly what Jonson had in mind. He is humbly sincere, boyishly naive and innocently ebullient in his effort to become the richest man in the world.

His eyes look towards heaven as he describes the luxury, the voluptuous pleasure, the self-fulfilling lusts he envisions until he finally collapses on the floor in obscene ecstasy. It is a tribute to Mr. Hutt's emotive powers that he could even deliver the final lines over the roar of an audience gone wild.

Tempering the ridiculous with the sublime, "Hamlet" opened last evening as the Stratford company's second entry.

It is, of course, the more difficult of the two plays. Moreover, the fact that most people see at least one "Hamlet" annually, puts rather a strain on a production which endeavors to be new and fresh.

The Stratford Theater came through, and without resorting to the kind of art for art's sake daring that flawed the APA production which played

Ann Arbor earlier this year.

Whereas "Hamlet" is often seen as a largely psychological study, director John Hirsch's interpretation gave full meaning to the political conflict as both a motive force in the action and the context in which the play must eventually be placed. By including many of the oft-edited references to the threat of Fortinbras' armies, Hamlet's obsession becomes not only that of a son who must avenge his father, but also that of a born ruler who must assume his responsibility to his country.

Without diminishing the stature of the prince, he has been cut to human, albeit noble, size; and Kenneth Welsh's Hamlet is played with this humanized dimension. If he is capable of utter despair and suprahuman resolve, he can also laugh without being satiric and love without being pathological.

Welsh portrays a Hamlet who one can conceive as a human being beyond the confines of literary tragedy. In fact, the only speeches he seems to have difficulty with are the soliloquies which most actors put at the core of their interpretations. Welsh seems, in these instances, to step out of character to recite "some immortal lines."

A good "Hamlet," if not a great one; a play you might, but certainly ought not to miss.

Degree recital set For Ypsilanti man

Steven Nehemiah Glenn, a master's candidate at the University of Michigan School of Music, will conduct a program of sacred music Monday evening, March 31, at Pioneer High School as his degree recital. This performance will follow one on Sunday, March 30, at St. Theresa Church in Detroit.

His program will span the full range of sacred music from the Renaissance motet to the Negro spiritual. Haydn's "Te Deum" and Dello Joio's "Ode to Saint Cecilia" are among the major works to be performed, with compositions by Brahms, Verdi, Schuman, Amner and traditional pieces completing the concert.

In preparation for the recital, Mr. Glenn established and trained the 90-voice choir and 30-piece orchestra which will be performing. This is an undertaking without precedent in the university's conducting department.

Mr. Glenn, who currently holds several staff positions at the university including assistant conductor of the Glee Club and Arts Chorale, has participated in most of the major musical associations at the University of Michigan and was a member of the Michigan Youth Chorale.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Nehemiah Glenn of 311 Second Ave., he is a 1964 graduate of Ypsilanti High School and took his undergraduate work in music at the University of Michigan.

New MEA head Says strikes OK

LANSING (AP) — A 30-year-old educator who views teacher strikes as moral and ethical has been named chief administrator for the 68,000-member Michigan Education Association.

Terry L. Herndon, a former Warren teacher, will assume his duties July 1, succeeding Dr. E. Dale Kennedy, 66, who is retiring.

Herndon says he hopes to see legal restraints on teacher walkouts—such as Michigan's Hutchinson Act, which prohibits strikes by public employees—removed.

Teacher salaries, he says, may be increasing rapidly—but they still aren't high enough.

"Compared to the investment, the progress still is not adequate," Herndon says. "Teachers are not yet achieving their proper share of an affluent society."

A native of Kentucky, Herndon moved to Michigan as a child and received bachelor's and master's degrees at Wayne State University. He currently is a doctoral candidate at the University of Michigan.

Cancer is blamed On chemical intake

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The reason many cancer victims—perhaps up to 80 per cent—are stricken could be chemicals they eat, breathe or otherwise live with, a scientist said today.

And if that is true, Dr. Samuel S. Epstein said, then most cancers someday could be prevented.

Epstein described delicate new methods to test whether common or unusual or yet unsuspected chemicals are or might be culprits in human cancers or in other health troubles.

Epstein, a research associate at Children's Cancer Research Foundation in Boston, told an American Cancer Society seminar for science writers that the suspect chemicals include pollutants in air and water, fuel combustion products, smoking, chemicals added to foods, some drugs, pesticides and a host of different agents.

In one method to detect potential chemical hazards, Dr. Epstein injects newborn mice with test materials during the first three weeks of life, then checks a year later whether they develop tumors.

Tiny amounts of extracts from solid particles taken from polluted city air produced a high incidence of tumors in the liver, lymph glands and lung, he said, and "such amounts would be inhaled in about three to four months" by people living in cities with polluted air.

A weed-killer, Maleic Hydrazide, under this test caused liver tumors. People eat enough from potatoes alone during 20 years time to get about the same dose given to the newborn mice, he said.

An anti-fungus drug, Griseofulvin, caused liver tumors in mice at lesser dosages than people might take orally over a long period of time to cure stubborn skin infections, Dr. Epstein said.

He finds also that some normally inert chemicals show intensifying effects when combined with other chemical agents.

Whether these findings and other tests actually apply to humans is not proven, Dr. Epstein said.

John Baskin (right) takes the baton from brother Melvin as Willow Run begins the last leg of its 880-yard relay bid during last night's Huron Relays at Bowen Field House. The Flyers won the event last year, but unfortunately finished out of the money this time. Team champion Ecorse won the 880 relay in 1:36.4.

Nicklaus misses cut

Murphy leads pack After record round

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A tightly bunched pack of par-wreckers set out in pursuit of pudgy Bob Murphy and his blast hot putter today in the second round of the $200,000 National Airlines Open Golf Tournament, but Jack Nicklaus and Bob Goaly weren't among them.

Nicklaus, who will be the favorite in the Masters Tournament April 10-13, can't seem to find the range with his big war club, the driver. He shot 73-75—148 here and missed the cut. Goaly, defending champion in the Masters, is in the throes of one of the most atrocious and frustrating slumps that have ever plagued a big time golfer. He had 74-73—147, missing by a stroke.

Both went out to try to find a solution to their woes while the game's great and near-great took dead aim at the $40,000 first prize here, one of the sport's richest.

The 26-year-old Brooklynborn Murphy, a brash, cocky but very personable young man of great girth, forged to the front of the pack Friday by shooting a course record-equalling 66 over the 9,927-yard, par 72 Country Club of Miami course for 135, nine under par.

summer," said portly Robert, a part-time watermelon salesman who won more than $70,000 in the Westchester Classic and Philadelphia Open on successive weeks and became pro golf's Rookie of the Year.

Right behind him at 136 is stringbean Dale Douglass, with 136, followed by Lionel Hebert and Butch Baird, tied at 137; Australian Bruce Crampton, Gay Brewer, Terry Wilcox, Terry Dill and Dick Ryhan, tied at 138.

The 56-year-old slammerin' Sammy Snead remained in contention at 139, as did Arnold Palmer and Gene Littler at 142. But Bill Casper is broken out with allergy and back at 143 while PGA champion Julius Boros, suffering a stomach ailment, is further behind at 145. South Africa's Gary Player, his putter ice cold, is at 144.

The blond, bombardiering Nicklaus believes he can iron out his driving kinks under the eye of his old pro, Jack Grout, who now teaches here, but Goaly is another and a sadder problem.

"I can't explain this slump," said the popular, broad-shouldered Masters titleholder. "But I'm in the middle of it. It has happened to others. You can bet I'll be back."

Goaly refuses to blame his failure of the past year to the controversy that surrounded his victory in the Masters which came after Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina signed an erroneous scorecard.

Ecorse mauls relays' field

Class A thinclads enter spotlight today

By DAVE HERBST Press Sports Editor

Ecorse is back in Class B — and back atop the world of track and field.

At least that's the indication the Red Raider thinclads gave last night when they won two events and placed in six others to mop up the field in the 14-event Class B division of the Huron Relays.

Paul Piper's talented tracksters tallied 60 points during the afternoon and evening action at Eastern Michigan's Bowen Field House to far out-distance runner-up Wyoming Park of Grand Rapids, which accumulated 34 points. Wyoming Park was third last year.

Ecorse, ironically, scored that identical point total (60) two years ago when it captured the Relays' Class B title. Last year, the Red Raiders moved up to Class A and finished fifth in this traditional opener for the Michigan-Ohio high school track season.

Last year's champion, Shelby of Ohio, found the competition relatively stiffer this time around and fell to 19th place with 11½ points.

And Willow Run, in a 10th place tie a season ago, could muster only two points this time, which put the Flyers in 38th place.

Larry Smith accounted for Willow Run's points when he long jumped 19-6, for seventh place.

In addition to Ecorse's outstanding performance as a team, yesterday's action was marked by some notable individual efforts.

Ralph Zoppa of St. Louis set a blistering pace in the two-mile run and wound up breaking the meet record by 37 seconds. His 9:35.4 was one of four times recorded last night that bettered the previous mark of 10:12.4 set last year by Chuck Busuttil of Detroit Holy Redeemer.

Zoppa's effort was one of two to enter the recordbook. The other was a 10:57.5 in the distance medley relay by Amherst Steele. That broke the standard of 11:00.4 set in 1966 by Lutheran West.

Fifty-three schools entered yesterday's competition. Today 72 Class A schools began vying for laurels at 12:30 p.m. at Bowen Field House. This evening's program, beginning at 6 p.m., includes finals in nine events. Pontiac Central is the defending team champion.

LewCLA joins NBA

Bucs nab Alcindor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The National Basketball Association has scored a big triumph over the rival American Basketball Association with the announcement that Lew Alcindor of UCLA has verbally agreed to a million-dollar contract with the Milwaukee Bucks.

Alcindor made rumors official Friday when he told The Associated Press he would sign a contract with the last-place NBA team. He said the prestige of the older, established NBA had something to do with his choice "but it wasn't the prime consideration."

Alcindor led UCLA to a third straight national collegiate title last Saturday and it was expected that the Bucks of the NBA and the New York Nets of the ABA would stage a giant money war for the rights to Lew.

But the 7-foot-1½ center told both leagues to make one sealed bid. Lew wanted no auction.

Milwaukee, which had earned the rights to Lew in a coin-tossing contest with Phoenix, made its bid last Monday, New York bid Tuesday.

"Milwaukee made the most solid and most reasonable offer, all things considered," said Alcindor. He was expected to sign a multiple-year contract for a figure "considerably more than $1 million" next week, a spokesman said.

After Lew chose the NBA, officials of the rival association followed Alcindor to Los Angeles, where his mother was hospitalized with a blood ailment. They asked Lew to give them one more chance to bid for his services.

At an after-midnight meeting in a hotel Friday morning, the ABA reportedly offered Alcindor "a huge amount" more than Milwaukee's offer. But Lew had made an oral agreement with the Bucks and he said no money offer could challenge his integrity.

Alcindor never has been a very high scorer or rebounder. He was known at UCLA as a team ball player who would do anything for a victory.

John Wooden, his college coach, said, "Lew will be a fine professional player because he's fine team player."

"He won't have to score points to be valuable," said Jerry West of the Lakers.

Alcindor lives in Los Angeles and the Nets play near his home.

Eastern Michigan University's finalized schedule for the inaugural football season in Elton J. Rynearson Stadium on Huron River Drive includes a trio of college division national powerhouses.

The Hurons will meet four teams in the new stadium — Akron, Kentucky State, Tampa and Montana State — and five others on the road as Dan Boisture begins his third season at the helm.

Akron kicked off Eastern's stay in the new 12,000 seat Rynearson facility, Sept. 27. Kentucky State comes into town Oct. 18 and Tampa follows the next week.

Tampa, which was picked up in place of the Quantico Marines, will take part in the homecoming and stadium dedication game.

Eastern's final home game is Nov. 8 against Montana State, Akron, Tampa and Montana State all have been pool powerhouses during the last several years.

Eastern's season opens Sept. 20 at Murray State. Oct. 4 the Hurons are at Indiana State; Oct. 11 they're at Wayneburg; Nov. 1 they're at Northeastern (Boston) and Nov. 15 they're at Ball State.

Expos bomb Tigers With 7 run inning

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Detroit Tigers' Manager Mayo Smith said his team would go back to practicing "the A B C's of baseball" after his team lost Friday's game with the Montreal Expos, 8-0.

The Tigers now stand 7-14 in preseason play after losing four straight games. Out of the last 12 games played, they have lost 10.

In Friday's game, the Expos scored one in the sixth inning, then mounted a seven-run offensive against Detroit lefthander John Hiller in the eighth inning. It was the Expos' biggest inning of the spring.

After pitching only two innings in the Montreal game, Hiller brought his earned-run average to 7.10.

Bill Freehan made his first appearance in the Tiger lineup in 10 days when he pinchhit. Freehan had been recovering from a broken nose.

Two hits, by Jim Northrup and Al Kaline, were all the Tigers could manage.

Expos Skip Guinn, Carol Sembera and Bill Stoneman pitched the shutout, with Stoneman the winner.

After the game, Smith commented: "We can't be this bad. If we are, I don't know what happened in six months' time. Some of the players are starting to press now. They have pride in the way they play, and now they are beginning to strain. About all I can do is keep talking to them."

He added: "We're going to go over some things tomorrow, the basic fundamentals of baseball—cutoffs, relays and things like that."

Smith predicted there would be a big change in the Tigers when they go north next weekend for a two-game barnstorming series with the Cincinnati Reds. The games will be Saturday in Montgomery, Ala., and Sunday in Columbus, Ohio.

The Tigers open their regular season April 8 in Detroit against the Cleveland Indians.

The presence of Rick Krumm, Bill Giffin and Rich Berryman, all right-handers, should make EMU a definite contender to return to the NAIA Collegiate World Series in St. Joseph, Mo., but first things must come first. And to kick things off, Oestrike has arranged a gruelling schedule of 12 games over a 10-day period.

That portion of the Hurons' slate, which features a trio of games with Tough Carson

Newman and a dou'cheader with the University of Tennessee, is part of what Oestrike considers one of EMU's most ambitious schedules ever.

Among the 37 games are meetings with both Michigan and Michigan State. The Michigan game, in Ann Arbor, will mark the Hurons' return from the South, on April 14. Michigan State will join Eastern in a doubleheader April 26, the date set for dedication of EMU's 2,500-seat stadium on Huron River Drive.

The season opens Thursday against West Virginia State at Institute, W.Va., and the home season kicks off April 17 against Calvin College of Grand Rapids.

Berryman, Giffin and Krumm accounted for exactly half of Eastern's 28 victories last season. Berryman, a 6-2, 190-pound senior from Redford Township, was second-winningest hurler on the staff with a 6-1 record. His ERA was 2.31.

Giffin, a 6-foot, 170-pounder from Riverview, and Krumm, six feet and 180 pounds, both chalked up 4-3 won-lost record last year.

But the ace of that rotation, Jay Schwalm, along with a pair of other regulars — outfielders John Clay and second baseman Gary "Butch" Bowen — causes Oestrike to remain reserved in his optimism.

Schwalm pitched the most innings (77), led the pitchers in strikeouts (74) and had the lowest earned run average of any regular pitcher (1.52).

Clay, a speedy centerfielder, was third on the team in batting (.324) and led the Hurons in extra-base pokes with 15 — 11 doubles, two triples and two home runs.

Doubtful for this season is Rich Konik, the Detroit Tigers' No. 1 draft choice in 1966 and the Hurons' second-leading hitter last season at .353. He has undergone a knee operation.

According to the coach, Kanick will definitely miss Eastern's trip to the South and may be out for the season. It was an off-season injury.

There is plenty of batting strength returning, though, led by Midland sophomore Terry Collins. Collins, who played shortstop last season but will probably go at second base this year, rapped out 40 hits for a .354 average.

Other top hitters returning are Pete Casteel (.291), Ed McLaughlin (.288) and Jerry Warkentien (.282). Casteel and McLaughlin are co-captains.

Oestrike is high on Mike Knowles, a junior college transfer from Florida, to see a lot of action both as a catcher and outfielder. Knowles, 5-11 and 185 pounds, is strong-armed and a power hitter, Oestrike says.

Veteran hurlers brighten EMU hopes

By DAVE HERBST Press Sports Editor

A trio of four-year veterans heading up the pitching staff leads Ron Oestrike to believe his Eastern Michigan University baseball team may have a rosy spring in store.

The only thing that could make his prospects any rosier would be a couple more proven performers for the Hurons' exhausting jaunt into the south lands, beginning Wednesday.

That portion of the Hurons' slate, which features a trio of games with Tough Carson

Sports world
Mourns Ike

By the Associated Press
Sports activity across the country came to a temporary standstill today as athletes and fans paused to honor the memory of one of their own, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower, who played football at West Point before launching his brilliant military career, then found in golf a sanctuary from the rigors of the Presidency, died Friday in Washington.

The sports world quickly joined in mourning the loss of the stellar soldier-statesman, and memorial services at far-flung sports events were planned through Monday when the state funeral is to be held in the nation's capitol.

The 24 major league baseball clubs were directed by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn ceremonies at exhibition games in Florida, Arizona and California. No games will start Monday, the official day of mourning, until at least one hour after completion of the funeral services.

J. Walter Kennedy, president of the National Basketball Association, directed each of the eight teams involved in postseason playoffs to observe appropriate ceremonies before weekend games.

The American Basketball Association called off three regular season games scheduled for Monday night. The NBA playoff game between San Francisco and Los Angeles will go on as scheduled.

A tribute also was planned before the start of the Atlanta 500-mile stock car race Sunday.

A minute of silence was to be observed during the third round of the National Airlines Open golf tournament at Miami, Fla., today and Monday's scheduled qualifying play in the Greater Greensboro, N.C., Open was postponed until Tuesday in deference to the memory of the former President.

Arnold Palmer, the great golfer who met the President at Augusta, Ga., after winning the 1958 Masters and played with him several times thereafter, was particularly saddened by Ike's passing.

"He loved the game," Palmer recalled. "When he was on the course, he could shut out the cares of the world."

Surprise,
New power
For Twins

By the Associated Press
Minnesota unloaded some heavy lumber Friday and ... surprise, surprise ... none of it belonged to Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison or Tony Oliva.

The Twins smacked four home runs—two by spray hitters Cesar Tovar and Rod Carew, another by Rookie Craig Nettles and the fourth by relief pitcher Joe Grzenda to overtake the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5.

Killebrew, Allison and Oliva—the Twins' power men—had two hits Friday and have managed just two homers and 10 RBIs among them all spring. They left the heavy work to the others again Friday.

Tovar, who had six homers all last year, tagged a three-run shot to start the Twins' comeback from a 5-0 deficit against the Dodgers. Then homers by Carew, who had only one last year, and Nettles, who created some late-season excitement with five homers in 22 games in 1968, tied the game. Finally, relief pitcher Grzenda won it with a ninth inning homer.

In other games, Atlanta ripped Washington 9-4, Houston edged the New York Mets 5-4, Montreal shut out Detroit 8-0, Kansas City shaded Pittsburgh 2-1 and the Chicago White Sox outslugged Boston 10-8.

Also, Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 9-2, the Chicago Cubs dropped San Francisco 9-4, California took San Diego 8-1, Cleveland clobbered Oakland 12-2, Seattle edged California's "B" team 4-3 and Baltimore topped the New York Yankees 3-1.

Rookie Darrell Evans paced the Braves with a two-run homer and a double in a five-run seventh inning rally as Atlanta pounded the Senators. Del Unser drove in three runs for Washington.

Houston bunched three runs in the seventh inning to defeat the Mets. Doubles by John Edwards and Jesus Alou keyed the rally. Ed Kranepool had two singles and a homer for the Mets.

Montreal
Eyes NFL Franchise

MONTREAL (AP) — Gerry Snyder, vice-chairman of Montreal's executive committee, said Friday this Canadian city is closer now to becoming a member of the National Football League than it was one year ago to getting a major league baseball franchise.

Snyder, instrumental in gaining a National League expansion franchise for the Montreal Expos, attended the recent professional football meetings at Palm Springs, Calif.

"Our chances of getting a football franchise are much better than they were of getting baseball at a similar stage," Snyder said. "Everyone I spoke to there was interested in Montreal."

"They have important decisions to make regarding their own format, but as soon as they get around to thinking of expansion, I think we are in an excellent position."

He said Montreal's chances are better "than they were for baseball because the competition—if that's what you want to call it—is nothing. Seattle has a good chance, but the other cities mentioned don't even figure. "They know that the city is interested and that's all we expect at this time. There was no talk of the stadium and that comes later."

The Expos are scheduled to open next month in a reconstructed, 28,450-seat park in the city's north end—a temporary arrangement until a larger, preferably domed, stadium can be constructed in the early 1970s.

Montreal will be Canada's bidder for the 1976 Olympic Games.

"If we are successful with that Olympic bid there is no way that we can get out of building a stadium," Snyder said. "We will have to think of it as a three-pronged affair—for the Olympics, major league baseball and major league football."

Pressure on Over money

NEW YORK (AP) — At suburban real estate agencies and incorporate offices they call it the crime rate rather than the prime rate, and no more than a couple of years ago the description might have been accurate.

The prime rate today is 7.5 per cent, meaning that is the lowest borrowing rate for a bank's best customers for the very safest purposes. All other rates, for homes, automobiles, travel, boats, rise upward from this base.

Rather than being a crime, however, the situation Americans see evolving each day is a crunch, a shortage of lendable money, a shortage planned by the Federal Reserve and designed to force Americans to spend less.

This is the much heralded fight against inflation. By making money hard to come by, it is hoped that Americans will be prevented from bidding up the price of goods. But it is far from painless, as the Nixon people had hoped.

A crime? Some people think so, but in a strictly legal sense all official rates today are within the law. But only because usury ceilings were lifted, sometimes hastily, by state governments.

With some borrowing costs now at their highest since the Civil War, many companies have withdrawn from the market. That's one effect of the anti-inflation plan. But others, for various reasons, must continue to borrow.

Eventually, before deflation begins, this could mean even higher prices for homeowners and those who use the goods and services of such firms. More important, even, is the effect on potential home buyers.

High rates mean at least two things: First, mortgage rates are likely to continue rising. Second, no matter what rate a party is willing to pay for a mortgage, there's a real chance he won't obtain it, especially around cities.

Here's one reason why. If the prime rate is 7.5 per cent, it is unlikely that a bank will wish to deal in government-backed mortgages—federal housing or veterans—when the ceiling on such loans also is 7.5 per cent.

Because of such rates, because of a shortage of lendable funds and because inflation has pushed $30,000 homes into the $40,000 category in less than two years, an enormous problem now exists in the housing market.

Painful pressures are thus being exerted on millions of Americans in the vast and growing middle class, people whose ambition—and sometimes only way of living gracefully—is to be a homeowner.

Fast pace Causing Hustle

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are now paying higher taxes, higher interest rates and higher prices than a year ago. Oddly, in the midst of prosperity they find themselves rationing money and straining to pay bills.

This is the penalty of inflation, and the worst may yet be ahead. Since wholesale prices are still rising rather sharply, more increases in consumer product prices are inevitable. The peak is still ahead.

The descent from inflation may be even more painful. It could mean even higher interest rates, bigger down payments on houses, more unemployment. Controls on wages and prices are a possibility. Even higher taxes cannot be ruled out.

These are among the darkest prospects. But one event could ease pressures dramatically. This is the possibility of a cease-fire in Vietnam, followed by a sharp cut in military spending.

And the bright side of the present economy should not be overlooked. It is the most bountiful in our history. People may not have all the money they need for purchases, but that's generally because they want to purchase so much.

This desire is widespread. The federal government asks more money for cities. State governments must spend for transportation. Local governments must build schools and water and sewer lines.

Business mirror:

Nixon sticks by surtax

NEW YORK (AP) — It seemed like a routine message to Congress, but President Nixon's statement this week on the need for a surtax extension was a clear and strong reaffirmation of an anti-inflation policy that so far has not worked.

Even the most outspoken critics concede, however, that it is a policy that must be given plenty of time to prove itself.

That policy seeks to return balance to the economy by the use of the basic techniques of raising revenues and cutting spending. Direct involvement in the market place, through controls or guidelines, is rejected.

"This is fundamental economics," Nixon said, "and we intend to deal with fundamentals." But it is this fundamental attack that so far has shown such poor results in cooling the economy. Inflation has, in fact, accelerated.

Not only is the Nixon administration faced with a fierce battle, therefore, but it is likely that along the way it will have to defend its methods of combat, for these methods may produce sound but not quick changes.

In some respects it is a courageous policy, for it isn't necessarily the easiest route to take. Although it is buttressed by the best of orthodox economic thinking, it still may be vulnerable, especially to politicians.

By intervening in the market place, Presidents Kennedy and Johnson did manage to thwart some industrial price increases. And former members of their administrations have said Nixon could do the same. He hasn't—by design.

Although this preserves the cherished freedom of the market place, it also could prolong the battle.

Eventually, however, the fundamental approach should begin to make its impact. Slowly but surely, it is reasoned, labor and business will realize that inflation isn't here to stay and so will refrain from raising their rates.

Nixon explained it this way: "... by proving government's serious intent to counter the upward spiral of prices and wages, we will create conditions which will encourage the private sector to stop assuming a high rate of inflation in long-range planning."

This gradual process is certain to provoke some doubts among critics. It is an impersonal process. It can even be ruthless. It means that "the very young and the very old, the poor and the thrifty," whom Nixon says are most hurt, still have a while to suffer.

when it is now so high it threatens severe inflationary pressures, thus hurting the young and old, the poor and thrifty.

One defense of the tax credit is that there are too many dangers in manipulating or turning it on or off to suit the short-term demands of the economy.

Capital spending, it is argued, involves so many billions of dollars for such long-range plans that confusion would ensue if a stable rate were not maintained. But critics ask: "Then why have it at all?"

This and other questions will be argued in coming months as fundamental economics attempts to prove itself after two administrations

Somewhat inconsistent to Nixon's basic theory, and therefore open to attack, is the 7 per cent investment tax credit that businessmen enjoy as a spur to capital spending.

It is also a fair question to continue asking why capital spending should be spurred by the government. It is an impersonal process. It can even be ruthless. It means that "the very young and the very old, the poor and the thrifty," whom Nixon says are most hurt, still have a while to suffer.

A new label that will wash off but will not peel off merchandise is now available. Retailers will benefit because it is virtually impossible to remove these pressure sensitive labels by peeling or scraping.

From time to time everyone has been exasperated in trying to remove labels from newly purchased goods. Now customers will no longer become frustrated because labels may be removed easily in water.

Wash-away labels that dissolve completely in water are also now appearing on the market. These will replace the traditional hang tags on goods such as appliances.

Metal-Plastic Composites

Metal-plastic profile extrusions team up desirable engineering properties of both materials. For instance an overhead door jamb seal comprises a steel strip with prepunched mounting holes with plastic extruded around it.

The metal adds rigidity to the plastic and affords a way for mounting the seal. The plastic forms a flexible flap that meets a wide range of outdoor exposure requirements.

Plastic profile extrusions with metal embeddings take advantage of the best qualities of thermoplastics, such as chemical and corrosion resistance, warmth, and color. The metal can be wire or strip.

For instance wire is embedded in an extruded vinyl storm window frame to add rigidity and dimensional stability. Designs may be complex and size generally does not pose a problem. While most of the present applications involve vinyls, there are no restrictions on the type of thermoplastic used.

Questions from local industries on technological needs and problems can be sent to Prof. Carter in care of The Press, or directly to him at Eastern Michigan University, 483-6100, ext. 2189.

Talking business

A delegation of five business representatives from Ypsilanti earlier this week attended the special closed circuit telecast entitled "Challenge from the Nixon Administration" sponsored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and beamed into 26 cities throughout the nation.

Thomas S. Monaghan and David K. Kilby of Domino's Pizza, Richard Leslie of Contemporary Structures, Dr. Phillip Wells of Eastern Michigan University and Ypsilanti Area Chamber of Commerce assistant manager J. Douglas Houston attended the program Wednesday at Detroit's Cobo Hall.

Seven hundred businessmen attended the telecast in Detroit which featured Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and members of the Nixon cabinet. A special telephone arrangement allowed businessmen at the 26 different locations to direct questions to the administration representatives.

Local realtor Harold Lawson was one of the 100 agents who recently attended a session for representatives of Homestead Corporation in Warren. Homestead manufactures pre-engineered housing components which are shipped and erected in the Michigan, Ohio and Indiana area.

Lawson, whose office is at 4900 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor, represents the corporation in the Greater Ypsilanti Area.

Motor Wheel Corporation, which has a plant at 717 Norris St., has announced plans for constructing a plant in Ashburn, Ga. for producing mobile home axle assemblies. Selection of the Ashburn site was made primarily because of the city's location with the mobile production activity in the south, according to Motor Wheel president Robert J. Derleth.

The Georgia plant will be part of the Foreman Manufacturing Co. which is headquartered in Chicago and is a division of Motor Wheel. Its addition will increase Motor Wheel's plant total to 13 with total employment at 6,500.

S. H. Lambdin of Lambdin Buick, Inc. at 1122 E. Michigan Ave. is one of 14 dealers selected to serve on the Detroit Buick Zone Dealer Council. The council is elected by dealers from the zone and it participates with Buick Motor Division representatives in a program designed to promote close co-operation in matters of mutual interest on wholesale and retail levels.

The Consulting Engineers Council of Michigan will hold its fourth annual awards banquet tonight at the Sheraton-Ann Arbor Motor Inn. Jim Hart of Midwestern Consulting Inc. at 884 Railroad St. is chairman for the activity.

The banquet, to be preceded by cocktails, is to begin at 7:30 p.m.

The council has 52 member firms in all major Michigan cities. It is affiliated with the Consulting Engineers Council of the United States, the national professional society of engineers in private practice.

Ford Motor Co. Rawsonville plant manager Edgar O. Miller has been elected chairman of the Ford Ypsilanti-Rawsonville Community Relations Committee for the coming year. The committee is organized to co-ordinate the company's community affairs in the area of its plant.

Miller succeeds William R. Kiessel who recently moved to the division's product development office after having served as Rawsonville plant manager.

Ann Arbor resident Ronald J. Cutler of Creek Drive has been appointed sales representative of Huron Cement, a division of National Gypsum Co. and will service Washtenaw and Monroe counties.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans has promised that the Nixon administration is moving toward exempting "many hundreds" of small companies from the controls.

Those who urge caution in removing controls say that pentup demand for capital funds abroad would open a floodgate for American investment abroad.

Mandatory controls were also intended as a psychological move, to prove to the rest of the world that Americans were willing to take strong action to improve the balance of payments.

"Furnace with a Future"

You're all set for future air conditioning with a Carrier Winter Weathermaker. It's a compact furnace with modern styling. It comes equipped with the Control Center shown above. Later, for summer cooling, you just add a cooling coil. The same Control, ductwork, fan and filter used for heating are used for cooling.

Your home will be air conditioned eventually. Plan for it now with a Carrier Winter Weathermaker.

AN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL BY BOARD OF EDUCATION OF WILLOW RUN PUBLIC SCHOOLS, YPSILANTI, MICHIGAN. NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS. Sealed Proposals will be received by the Board of Education for the construction of a NEW ELEMENTARY SCHOOL until 8:00 P.M., E.S.T., on April 17, 1969, Thursday, at which time they shall be publicly opened and read aloud.

The Proposal Contract Form, Plans and Specifications, under which the work will be done, are on file and may be examined at the following places:

1. At the Office of the Board of Education, Willow Run Public Schools, 2172 E. Michigan Avenue, Ypsilanti, Michigan 48197.
2. At the Office of the Architect, S. T. GERGANOFF, 205 N. Washington Street, Ypsilanti, Michigan 48197.
3. F. W. Dodge Corporation, 1415 Trumbull, Detroit, Michigan.
4. Builders Exchange of Detroit, 1361 E. Jefferson, Detroit, Michigan.

Proposals shall be made on forms furnished by the Architect, and based on a Lump Sum Contract.

Copies of the plans and specifications may be obtained from the Architect, at Ypsilanti, by making a deposit of fifty ($50.00) dollars for each set of plans and documents. The full amount of the deposit will be returned to each bidder returning documents in good condition, to the Architect's Office within ten (10) days after bids are opened.

A certified check, cashier's check or bidder's bond, payable to the Board of Education of Willow Run Public Schools, for the sum of not less than five ($5) per cent of the amount of the Base Proposal, will be required with each Proposal.

The right is reserved by the Board of Education to accept or reject any, or all, Proposals, and to waive informalities in Proposals.

No bids may be withdrawn for at least thirty (30) days from the date set for receiving Proposals.

Drawing and specifications will be available and ready for distributing on March 19, 1969.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF WILLOW RUN PUBLIC SCHOOLS. By: Kimball Chon, Secretary. Date: March 14, 1969.

LENTEN GUIDEPOSTS

Impossible dream

By BARBARA WITKOWER
Homemaker,
Los Angeles, California

It all started when our son Mark was going through the "I can't stage. He was about 5 and becoming aware that the world was filled with people who expected him to go to school, learn to read and do new things that were not always easy.

All this wasn't nearly as much fun as playing with his toys or simple family games. And then one day his Uncle Shimmin came to call.

My mother's brother, Uncle Shimmin, had been a small, odd-looking child. He barely reached five feet in height, and 100 pounds when full grown.

During the depression years his wife died, leaving five little children whom he would not give up although the going was rough.

A jewelry mechanic by trade, Uncle Shimmin found that the years were lean, and the bodies of his children thin. They grew up, as children have a way of doing, without even the frosting on the cake, and then one day new life began to unfold for Uncle Shimmin.

A man without formal schooling, he became interested in the wisdom of the ages. Books became his constant companion. Religions especially fascinated him and for 10 years he studied the Bible and the teachings of Buddhism and Confucianism.

Then Uncle Shimmin found a dream stirring within him. It was a strange one for a man who had been searching for truth. He wanted to climb the Matterhorn! There, he felt, he would find the answer to the why of his existence.

Books were put aside and Uncle Shimmin devoted his days to climbing. In the next few years we kept getting reports from him about all the mountains he had climbed in the California area.

Those who wish to climb the Matterhorn must get a permit from the Guide's Union in Zermatt, Switzerland, before they are even allowed to prepare for the actual climb. Somehow Uncle Shimmin raised the fare to Switzerland for his interview.

The men at the Guide's Union took one look at Uncle Shimmin's slight frame, his obvious naivete, and tactfully began to discourage him.

He listened and then, in his quiet way, he told the men one shouldn't judge a man's strength and courage from his physical form.

"Man's ability to overcome danger, his courage and power, come from inner qualities," Uncle Shimmin said.

Impressed by his determination and faith in himself, the men of the Guide's Union agreed to let Uncle Shimmin climb Mt. Zermatt, a smaller peak, to prove his prowess. If this went all right, then perhaps he could tackle the Matterhorn.

He passed with flying colors and on July 27, 1948, Uncle Shimmin started the laborious and dangerous climb up the Matterhorn. Finally he reached the summit. His guide, Victor Biner of Zermatt, still talks of the miraculous ease with which Uncle Shimmin met every frustration, every challenge.

There was quite a bit of publicity at the time and when Uncle Shimmin came back to visit us he showed Mark some of the clippings. Impressed by Uncle Shimmin and excited about his climb, Mark flung question after question at him.

"But don't you want to know what I found on top of that great mountain?" Uncle Shimmin asked. Naturally Mark wanted to know.

Uncle Shimmin told him that far from the hustle-bustle of worldly things, he realized that way up there, close to the sky, God had no special place He called home. The magic wasn't up there on the mountaintop as Uncle Shimmin had dreamed, but within your heart. Wherever you are, there lives God.

Uncle Shimmin concluded with this statement: "Throughout your life, Mark, there will be a Matterhorn to climb, perhaps in your own backyard, and always there will be those people who doubt your ability to climb it. But as long as you know you can, no mountain of any kind will be too difficult."

So now when people, young or old, doubt their ability to cope with any situation, our wise little son, with Uncle Shimmin's story still fresh in his mind and heart, pokes me and says, "Mommy, tell them about Uncle Shimmin!"

Next — Delonda Jarvis, Indiana homemaker, tells how two words, "Yes, but . . ." gave her a philosophy that made her life more rewarding.
